

Free School Book Law Will Be Asked In Assembly Today

Stanford and Evans to Seek Incorporation of Provision in General Appropriation for Schools.

APPROPRIATIONS MADE AT DOUBLE SESSION

Salaries for Governor and Statehouse Officers Approved—Debate on Appropriations Limited.

An attempt to amend the general appropriation bill so as to provide that the common schools of the state shall receive $5,000,000 for each of the years 1924 and 1925 and that $200,000 of this sum shall be expended annually for the purchase and distribution of free school books to elementary pupils, will be made today in the Georgia house of representatives as a committee of the whole, Stanford, of Lowndes, and Evans, of Warren, announced Tuesday night.

Distribution of the school books would be under the direction of the state board of education, according to the proposed amendment, which was ready for introduction at the afternoon session, but was not submitted because the school session was not reached by the committee of the whole house.

Hot Fight Expected.
The present appropriations measure provides $4,250,000 annually for the public schools, with the provision that half of all revenues above $8,500,000 shall be diverted to them.

Elders, of Tattall, has stated he will seek to amend the section so as to appropriate $1,500,000 to the schools for each of the next two years and not change the standing proviso relating to excess revenues.

Leaders predicted that with these two proposed amendments under consideration, the most heated contest in connection with the appropriations bill probably would develop today.

Holding its first double-session of the 1923 assembly, the house, as a committee of the whole, adopted five sections of the appropriations bill with only one slight change of the appropriations committee's recommendations, which were in accordance with statutory provisions fixing the salaries of statehouse officials.

Walker's Salary $7,500.
The following allowances were approved:

Salary of governor, $7,500; secretaries and clerks in governor's office, $10,000; salary of executive department messenger, $500; contingent fund, to be expended by governor according to law, $25,000; reward fund, $2,000.

Salary of secretary of state, $2,000; clerk to secretary of state, $1,000; comptroller general salary, $2,000; chief clerk in his office, $1,000; insurance clerk, $2,400; clerk in wild land department, $1,000; salary paid service corporation, tax clerk, $1,200. This was changed by the committee of the whole house from $900 in order to comply with statutory provisions which placed the salary at $1,200. Salary insurance commissioner, $3,000; deputy insurance commissioner, $3,000; insurance clerk in office of insurance commissioner, $2,000.

Salary of state treasurer, $4,800; assistant treasurer, $3,600; clerical expenses, $6,000. Huxford, of Clinch, lost a fight to have this expense allowance repealed.

Salary of attorney general, $5,000; assistant, $2,500; stenographer, $1,500.

Debate Is Limited.
In submitting proposed instructions to the house as a committee of the whole before it went into session, Milner, of Dodge, moved to limit in-

LAUSANNE PEACE TREATY IS SIGNED BY SEVEN NATIONS

All Delegations Leave With Exception of Americans and Turks,
Who Are Negotiating Agreement.

Lausanne, July 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—The treaty of Lausanne, re-establishing peace in the Near East, now bears the signatures of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Greece, Rumania and Turkey. Simple ceremonies marking the termination of negotiations which have extended over many months, were carried out in the main hall of Lausanne university this afternoon and when the representatives of the various nations, led by Ismet Pasha, had affixed their signatures, President Schurer, of the Swiss confederation, declared the session adjourned, with the admonition:

"Let the closing thought be a benediction."

Big Demonstration.
An impressive demonstration acclaiming the signing of peace occurred in Lausanne tonight. The streets were crowded with rejoicing multitudes, many coming in from the country districts to take part.

The tower and spire of the cathedral, which dominates the city, were aglow with electric designs, visible for miles on both sides of the lake, while searchlights played across from the surrounding hills.

The British delegation left for home tonight; the others will go tomorrow leaving only the Americans and Turks, who are still engaged in negotiations over the Turco-American treaty.

Turks Are Winners.
By the treaty of Lausanne which was signed today, Turkey regains eastern Thrace and becomes the bridge between the east and west. She joins the league of nations on the footing of equality.

Constantinople goes definitely to Turkey.

All foreign troops will be withdrawn.

The treaty makes peace between Greece and Turkey.

It permits the patriarch of the Greek orthodox church to remain in Constantinople.

It unchokes one of the most stupendous and in some ways the most cruel human movements in history by its compulsory exchange of population, the Greeks in Turkey returning to Greece and the Turks in Greece returning to Turkey.

It fails to solve the Armenian problem. Armenians being obliged to find new havens.

It reduces Turkey's size by its recognition of detached mandates states, like Syria, Mesopotamia and Palestine.

With one stroke of the pen it rids Turkey of judicial capitalizations such as China vainly sought to accomplish for itself at Washington and which Japan achieved only after two decades of struggle.

In only one way is Turkey treated as a victor.

Maxwell Painted As Gay Lothario In Court Brief

Wrote Poison Pen Letters
When He Tired of Sweethearts, It Is Charged.

New York, July 24.—A portrait of George Maxwell, president of the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers, as a Lothario who made love to many women and, when he became bored, rid himself of them by writing poison pen letters to their husbands and relatives, was drawn today by Assistant District Attorney Maloney.

The picture was sketched in a brief in general sessions opposing a motion by Maxwell's counsel to dismiss indictments charging his client with having written such letters received by Allan A. Ryan, prominent Wall Street trader, and many others. Judge McIntyre reserved decision of the motion.

Remarkable Brief.
The brief—one of the most remarkable in the history of New York jurisprudence—charged Maxwell with poisoning letters for more than twenty years. According to the district attorney, some of the letters were modeled after the famous German court letters which rocked the foundations of royal society in several countries about 1900 and which it de-

FRENCH CABINET UPHOLDS PREMIER ON REPARATIONS

Votes Approval of Poin-care's Attitude Towards British Project for Reply to German Note.

HIS REPLY IS VEILED BY VOW OF SECRECY

The Public Prosecutor in Frankfort Is Killed and His Wife and His Father
Are Maltreated.

Paris, July 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—The French cabinet today unanimously approved Premier Poincare's attitude toward the British project for a reply to Germany's reparation note which the premier set forth to his colleagues today for the first time.

This was the only definite information that was obtainable after the meeting of the cabinet ministers. France and Belgium it appears, already have practically agreed as to their position, and the fact that the cabinet meeting, which was to have been held Thursday, was advanced two days to hear M. Poincare's report on the situation was taken in political circles as indicating that the premier's reply was ready and that it was negative on some of the important points in the British proposals.

Premier Poincare, it is learned, from an authoritative source, regards the French position on the reparation question generally as unattainable legally and morally and from the economic viewpoint, and the optimism that appears to reign about the foreign office is attributed to the confidence entertained there that the French cabinet will in the end realize the strength of the French position and come to a compromise that will be acceptable.

Demands Secrecy.

The members of the French cabinet were today given their first view under the veil beneath which the latest stage of the reparation negotiations has been concealed. It is understood that Premier Poincare demanded of his colleagues the same vow of secrecy that he exacted from the officials of the foreign office before he set forth the broad lines of the reply he proposed to make, in agreement with the Belgian government, to the British reparation communication.

The French as a whole are making it a point of honor, it appears, to keep faith with the British government and not divulge any part of the contents of the documents under consideration. The press is not only accepting the situation with na-

BANDIT-SLAYERS CAUGHT BY POSSE

Detective Shot Down and Killed, His Companion
Wounded, and One of Alleged Robbers Wounded.

Little Rock, Ark., July 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—"Diamond Joe" Shaw and Arthur Lange, of many aliases and uncertain addresses, were brought back to Little Rock tonight by heavily armed posses, following a swift pursuit and capture after the two men had shot down and killed one city detective and seriously wounded another, here early today.

City Detective George W. Moore died in a local hospital a short time after the shooting, which occurred when Moore and his partner, Detective L. C. Hay, went to the home of a negro taxi driver to investigate a tip that burglars from Pine Bluff would attempt to dispose of loot at a house at Tenth and Chester streets, in a negro section of the city.

Moore and Hay entered the house. When they entered the room in which the two men and A. G. Waddell, the negro occupant, were standing, the two white men whipped out pistols and opened fire, Hay said at the hospital.

Moore went down immediately, shot through the head and abdomen. Hay was able to fire three shots before he was downed by a bullet through the shoulder. He got Lange in the leg and went to the floor with six bullets wounds, one of them through a lung.

Lange crawled to a small coupe in front of the house, witnesses said, and Shaw followed, calmly walking through a gathering crowd. He picked up Lange, placed him in the car and the two sped away, according to witnesses, who said they thought he was a detective.

"Diamond Joe" was captured by Sheriff McDonald near Sheridan, Arkansas.

COUNCIL TO MEET ON BOND ISSUES THIS AFTERNOON

City council will meet in adjourned session this afternoon to consider Councilman C. J. Vaughn's resolution which would reduce the proposed park bond issue from $2-000,000 to $800,000, and other resolutions seeking to adjust the proposed issues of bonds for waterworks, sewers, police station and parks so that their total will be within the city's legal bond limit.

Councilman Vaughn has announced that he will seek the reduction in parks in order that $1,100,000 which had been suggested for park improvements in each ward be devoted to waterworks improvements.

PLAN TO OPERATE SHIPPING BOARD FLEET REJECTED

The American Steamship Owners' Association
Wanted to Act Without Supervision of Board.

Washington, July 24.—The shipping board, after an all-day session today, rejected the proposal submitted by the American Steamship Owners' association for the operation for the shipping board fleet without supervision of the board.

In announcing the decision, Chairman Farley said the board hoped soon to be able to make public a plan for direct government operation, details of which are now being worked out.

The steamship owners proposed in effect, Chairman Farley said, that the shipping board "deliver to the steamship operating companies the needed vessels to maintain service on their present established routes for absolute control by the operating company without board supervision; that the shipping board pay the expenses of the operator and in addition pay all of any losses that would be incurred in such operation; all profits to be set aside in a special fund for the use of the steamship operator to buy ships from the shipping board, without obligation as to future service on the routes.

"The plan proposed," the chairman continued, "has all of the inherent defects of the present M. O. 4 contract which, because of said defects, is to be abandoned and adds a number of other objections not embraced in the present system of operation. It is obvious that it cannot be adopted by the board. The board hopes to be able shortly to make a definite statement of the plan for direct operation, on which it is working. In considering a plan, the board is prompted by a desire to establish the highest efficiency, the maximum economy and the preservation of the good will profected in the establishment of various trade routes on the seas, which good will is, under the present system and the plan proposed by the American Steamship Owners' association, an asset that would inure to a few, although paid for by the government."

Several bills tending to regulate the farm loan act in Georgia were reported favorably by senate general judiciary committee No. 1, which met simultaneously in the senate chamber.
R. A. Welch, of Columbia, S. C., counsel for the Farm Loan bank of that place, explained to the committee that certain changes in the Georgia laws were necessary to protect the bank's interests in the state.

The bill of Senator Gillis, of the eighteenth district, providing for amendment of section 1167 of the state code so as to allow defendants the privilege of redeeming property sold for taxes within twelve months from date of sale, was reported favorably.

Would Revise Bank Law.
Representative Cecil Neill, speaker of the house, at whose instigation Senator Pace introduced the bill in the senate, appeared before the committee and urged favorable action.
The bill is now pending in the house and should soon be reached on the calendar.

The committee reported adversely on the proposed measure of Senator Mason providing for regulating manufacturers of self-rising flour and requiring them to print ingredients on the outside of each package of self-rising flour.

Considerable discussion against the bill from local flour dealers, including Alderman J. R. Bachman, of the Atlanta Milling company, and J. L.
McLennan, of Tennessee, was voiced before the committee prior to its report.

Stories of Abuse
Of Children Stir
Chicago Parents

Shrieks, Muffled Sobs, and Angry Threats Add to Uproar in Court.

Chicago, July 24.—Shrieks and muffled sobs of mothers, noisy exclamations from sympathetic spectators and angry threats of fathers were added to the wild uproar which marked Tuesday's investigation of the Chicago Parental school.

So infuriated did parents among the crowd become that they were threatened with expulsion unless they remained quiet.

William Bartonek, a former child inmate of the school, and the first witness Monday, told of seeing Orville Vardeman, his 14-year-old pal, beaten to death by boys at the school upon instructions of an inspector named Davis.

"He said he fell from a tree, but that didn't cause his death," Bartonek said. "He ran away and they set a lot of boys on him who beat him to death."

The report of the coroner's jury shows Vardeman died from "hemorrhage of the brain caused by external violence."

John Kooi, 14, released Sunday from the school, stirred spectators when he told of having been tied with a clothesline and then beaten almost to insensibility for a minor infraction of the rules.

Upon request of Alderman Thomas Dowler, in charge of the investigation, Kooi stripped off his shirt and the crowd murmured angrily when the bruises on his body were exposed.

"That's the way they treat our little boys," shrieked Mrs. Alice Kooi, the boy's mother.

Other charges against Instructor
Davis, frequently mentioned in the examination, were made by Phillip Denny, in whose behalf a writ of habeas corpus has been asked to get him out of the institution. This writ resulted in the present probe.

He fed soap to the boys, made them eat soup full of roaches and stuffed their mouth full of rags to keep them from yelling," Denny said.

SENATE JUDICIARY COMMITTEE ACTS FOR SECRET VOTE

Australian Ballot System,
Proposed by Senator Pace, Recommended for Passage.

COMMITTEE ADVERSES REGULATION OF FLOUR

Bill to Permit Redemption of Property Sold for Taxes Wins Approval of Committee.

A favorable report on the bill of Senator Stephen Pace providing for the Australian ballot system in general elections of the state, and doing away with the necessity of having two consecutive county grand juries recommended the system before it becomes operative in individual counties, was voted by senate general judiciary committee No. 2 in session Tuesday.

Senator Pace explained the bill, stating that it would regulate the voting system in all counties, some of which at present have different systems, he declared. Eliminating the necessity of having county grand juries recommend the Australian ballot system, Senator Pace declared, would simplify matters regarding elections.

Neill Pleads for Bill.

mittee and urged favorable action.

WOMAN CONVICTED OF HIGH TREASON

Princess Marguerite Also Found Guilty of Perjury for Part in Aiding Ehr-hardt to Escape.

Leipzig, July 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—Princess Marguerite von Hohenlohe-Oehringen was convicted today of complicity in high treason and perjury for her part in the escape of Captain Ehrhardt, commander of the "Iron Brigade" during the Kapp Putsch of 1920. She was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

The princess, who observed her twenty-ninth birthday in jail last Saturday while awaiting trial, gave refuge to Captain Ehrhardt before his arrest last December. As Ehrhardt is accused of high treason for his part in the Kapp Putsch, the charge of complicity against the princess was based on her act in giving him domicile.

The perjury charge arose from her denial that she knew the former naval commander when, it was shown in court, he was at the time living in her home near Munich.

Ehrhardt escaped from the Leipzig prison about ten days ago and still is at large.

of age. The measure, which has passed the commons, now becomes a law, provided the assent of the crown is given.

GREAT SWORDFISH CUTS AWAY HALF OF BOAT BOTTOM

Montauk, N. Y., July 24.—A 900-pound swordfish maddened by a lance by Royce Amman, sent row boats and fishermen scampering to all parts of Montauk bay yesterday afternoon.
Amman spied the monster when he was within 200 yards of the shore.
Cutting half the bottom of his boat away in retaliation for the lance, the huge fish ignored the crew it had sent floundering into the water and rushed around seeking more boats to scuttle.

Elisha Amman put out in a power traveler, rescued his brother who was having difficulty in keeping his head above water, and succeeded in killing the monster after ten minutes of

CARSWELL TO BAR ALL PARTISANSHIP IN HIGHWAY PROBE

Tells Solons at Auto Association Dinner That Senate Committee Will Be Wholly Impartial.

The senate's special committee, which will serve jointly with a committee from the house in conducting a sweeping investigation of the state highway department, will be composed entirely of members "who are impartial and who have only the best interests of the state at heart," was the assertion of George H. Carswell, president of the senate at the eighth annual dinner of the Georgia State Automobile association, in the Kimball house dining room Tuesday night.

President Carswell declared that he will not appoint any member of the senate on the highway probe committee who asks to be appointed, nor would he permit the state highway department to name a single member whom it might deem friendly toward its interests.

"The personnel of the senate's highway probe committee," asserted President Carswell, "will consist only of members whom I believe to be interested in conducting a clean and complete investigation with Georgia's interests at heart. It will not do any good, nor will it influence me at all, for any member to ask to be appointed on this committee or for any of the state highway officials to ask that a certain member, or members, be named for this investigation."

Promises Fairness.

Author of Notes Threatening Film Stars Arrested

Police Believe They May Be Near Solution of Murder of Taylor.

Martinez, Cal., July 24.—Albert
Saus, confessed author of letters threatening Mabel Normand and Mack Sennett and "confessing" the murder of William Desmond Taylor, was arrested at Bay Point, near Lere, late Tuesday night.

The police believe they may be on the threshold of the solution of the famous murder mystery surrounding the death of the movie director, which has baffled Los Angeles authorities.

They are uncertain, however, whether the letters which led to the arrest of Saus are to be classed as the ravings of a madman or the product of the mind of a man driven to desperation by a guilty conscience.

When the officers approached him,
he said: "I know what you want."

Then Saus waved a San Francisco newspaper which contained the story of the receipt of his letters.

Outside of that, and the admission that he had written the two letters, which were received by the Hitchcock
Detective bureau, Saus refused to talk.
Letters in longhand, addressed to Miss Normand and Sennett, were also found in the room.

SIX PHILIPPINE OFFICIALS RESIGN THEIR POSITIONS

Influence of Quezon Seen as Cause of Step—Island Leaders Make Plea for Independence.

Manila, July 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—Six appointive representatives and senators of the Philippine legislature resigned tonight another move in the political struggle which is being waged about Governor General Leonard Wood.

The nominal reason given by those who resigned was that they wished to give the governor general the opportunity to fill the positions with men who would not embarrass him.

Friends of Governor General Wood point out that it is generally recognized that Manuel Quezon, head of the newly collective party, and other party leaders, are forcing out all of the Wood appointees for political and partisan purposes, attempting to make it appear that the people are solidly behind the recent cabinet resignations.

Need of Independence.
A declaration that recent developments have demonstrated the need for "immediate independence" of the Philippines was contained in the resolution demanding recall of Governor General Wood, adopted yesterday by the members of the island legislature and made public here textually today by the Philippine press bureau.

The press bureau's announcement also revealed that when the resolution was adopted the Senators and representatives were sitting "as the commission on independence" in the hall of the senate. The action was preceded by a speech by Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, declaring that although General Wood "pretends" that resignation of the cabinet and council of state was a surprise to him "this is not true."

Issue of Importance.
In addition to demanding General
Wood's recall and endorsing the action of the former Philippine officials in resigning the resolution said:

"The presentation of the series of grievances with the resignations of the leaders from Filipino participation in the government and the acceptance by the governor of the resignation without assurance of any change in the policy denounced as

Rules Announced For Enforcement Of Cotton Act

Washington, July 2.—Regulations for the enforcement of the cotton standards act which goes into effect August 1 were issued today by the department of agriculture. They provide for the administration of the act by the chief of the bureau of agricultural economics and specify how it shall be administered with respect to its optional features. Among the important provisions are those relating to the action of the act giving the owner or custodian of cotton the privilege of submitting samples to the Department of Agriculture for classification and making the department's final certificate of such classification prima facie evidence in United States courts. Three distinct services are contemplated: (1) informal classification of samples drawn and submitted by individuals in discriminate; (2) classification for purposes of arbitration of agreed samples submitted by two parties involved in a dispute; and (3) the classification of samples, the authenticity of which is established by supervision of the storage and sampling of the cotton. The regulations also provide the method by which qualified classifiers will be licensed upon application to the department.

Developed were written by Baron von Kott, who attacked the reputation of court ladies and to avoid suspicion, sent similar letters to himself. To support his charges, Mr. Maloney cited a number of alleged indiscretions between Maxwell and women of prominence in the social and artistic world. According to the assistant district attorney, the latest and most prominent woman to indulge in an affair with Maxwell was Mrs. Ryan, wife of the financier who attracted attention during the famous Stutz corner, and a member of the Tuck family of Philadelphia. Others whom Mr. Maloney listed among Maxwell's ex-inamoratas were a Danish opera singer, a motion picture actress, and a woman who was alleged to have toured Mexico, a concert singer and a ballet dancer.

LAUSANNE TREATY TURKISH VICTORY

Continued from First Page. differently from other countries; foreign legal advisers will be empowered to receive complaints relating to arrests and imprisonment of foreigners. The American diplomatic representatives, headed by Joseph C. Grew, minister to Switzerland, were prominent in all the sessions of the conference. As observers they played a dominating role in the last plenary session. They successfully insisted upon inclusion in the treaty of clauses enforcing the application of the principles of the open door and equal opportunity.

Attempts to gain preferential treatment in the future of economic contracts for foreign companies were defeated as was also the effort to validate disputed British concessions in the petroleum fields of Mesopotamia. Turkey has been at war for twelve consecutive years and conclusion of the Lausanne negotiations gives her sole needed opportunity for a period of national reconstruction and development.

Turkey, although vanquished in the world war as an ally of Germany, came to the council table at Lausanne as a victorious nation. Turkey's reconstruction armies had completely routed the Greek forces.

The Turkish government produced a great soldier—Ismet Pasha—who, in the negotiations here, has shown himself to be one of the great statesmen of Europe. Ismet worsted the celebrated Lord Curzon, British secretary of state and foreign affairs, at the first stage of the Lausanne conference.

Ismet constantly played two cards—Europe's ambition to restore peace in the Near East at almost any price and the exaggerated importance Turkey possesses as a world power through her geographical position.

"Straits Convention." Annexed to the treaty of Lausanne is a special "straits convention" whereby the waterways linking the Mediterranean and Black sea henceforth are thrown open to both warships and merchantment of all nations. It is a unanimous verdict that soviet Russia's last minute decision to adhere to this agreement stands out as the most significant single feature of the Lausanne conference; Bolshevik Russia probably has committed Russia for all time to opening the straits to men-of-war.

Though Lord Curzon was unable to be present at the second sitting of the conference he continued to be the directing mind in shaping its course. Underlying all of the weary, endless daily struggles one thought dominated all discussion, it was that Turkey should be brought back to Europe and not be forced by ostracism to cast her lot with Mohammedan people of the east—Egypt, India, Persia, Arabia and Afghanistan.

Danger of War. Kansas City, Mo., July 21.—The treaty signed today at Lausanne between European powers and Turkey leaves an imminent possibility of near eastern war over the age-old question of control of the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles. Henry J. Allen, of Wichita, former governor of Kansas, declared today in an address before the Co-operative club. Mr. Allen recently returned from a tour of Europe and Asia to study conditions for the Near East Relief. "The Turks have won a victory over

Washington, July 21.—Signing of the Lausanne peace treaty today may be followed by final agreement on terms of the Turkish-American treaty of amity tomorrow or Thursday, it is believed here, although unofficial reports from Lausanne earlier in the week indicated that obstacles had arisen in the negotiations between Ismet Pasha and Joseph Grew, representing the state department. Officials were reticent today as to the negotiations, and a lengthy interchange by cable with Mr. Grew, but it was apparent that he would not be surprised if the treaty was in shape for final agreement before Ismet leaves for Ankara on Thursday as his announced intention.

In support of his allegations, Maloney quoted radiograms which he said had been exchanged between Maxwell and Mrs. Ryan at one time when he was in New York and she was on the high seas. One of these messages, quoted by the prosecutor, and alleged to have been sent by Mrs. Ryan, read in part: "I am counting the hours. I will be there to meet you in Paris. Public Prosecutor Killed. London, July 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—During communique disturbances in Frankfurt, says a Central News dispatch from Berlin, the attorney general was knocked down in the street and killed. His residence was then plundered and demolished.

Reuter's Berlin correspondent confirms reports of communist disturbances in Frankfurt. He says it was the public prosecutor, Dr. Haas, who was killed yesterday, and that his wife and father also were maltreated.

In response to an appeal from the social democratic and communist parties and the trade unions, about 100,000 persons demonstrated yesterday against "usury and fascism," the Reuter message states. After the meeting of the demonstrators adjourned, collisions with the police occurred in various parts of the town.

All the shops, the message adds, were closed.

French Softening. Dusseldorf, July 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—French occupation headquarters today announced the inauguration of a number of measures tending to ameliorate the conditions imposed upon the population of the occupied territories.

The most important is an order suspending the expulsion of persons over sixty years of age, invalids and women about to become mothers. The Germans also are allowed until July 26 to send their children to the seashore or mountains for a vacation, thus waiving the closure of the frontier in these cases.

HOT FIGHT WAGED ON BIBLE READING

A warm debate between supporters and opponents of a bill by Senator Henderson, providing for amendment of the law requiring the reading of the Bible in the public schools of the state, was precipitated in the senate Tuesday when the measure came up for discussion. The debate extended until after the time for adjournment arrived, and will be continued in the senate this morning.

Senator Henderson urged the adoption of the measure without amendment, claiming that "the reading daily of the Bible in the schools would not injure any student whether he be Catholic, Jewish, or of any other faith."

Senators Pace and Mason opposed the measure on the grounds that the bill affected the constitutional rights of residents of the state and was a blow to religious liberty.

Senator W. W. Mundy declared that "the Bible should be read in all schools as well as in all homes" and asserted that those opposed to its general reading in the schools "evidently did not read it in their homes."

Senator Pace denied this assertion, stating that these remarks were unwarranted and that Senator Mundy had no right to engage in personalities on such a matter.

The amendment provides that the Bible shall be read in sequence style in the form of religious history. This session will be resumed on the floor of the senate this morning.

HOLD FUNERAL RITES FOR MRS. FAY BRANTLEY

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Fay Satterfield Brantley, formerly of Atlanta, who died in Athens, her home, Friday afternoon following a short illness.

Mrs. Brantley was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Satterfield of Atlanta. She was a bride only seven months and had lived in Athens for that time.

She is survived by her husband, J. R. Brantley; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Satterfield; three sisters, Mrs. Mattie Webb, Mrs. Effie O'Neal and Miss Florence Satterfield of Atlanta. Interment was in Oceanview cemetery.

Church Expulsion Is Basis of Suit for $5,000 Damages

"All members in favor of holding a church barbecue and expelling Mary Banks from the congregation, let it be known by saying 'aye,'" Rev. J. P. Latimore, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, colored, announced from the pulpit several Sundays ago, according to a suit filed by Mary Banks in Fulton superior court Tuesday.

Mary alleged she had been disgraced and maliciously expelled from the church.

According to the petition the "aye" had it. Mary Banks was automatically expelled and the barbecue became a thing to be looked forward to. The petition was directed against the pastor, Becky Love and Lizzie Harper, and asked for $5,000 damages. The woman also averred that she had been ejected from the "Mothers club," an organization of the church, through the malicious action of the named defendants.

POPE PIUS GIVES PRIVATE AUDIENCE TO N. Y. SENATOR

Rome, July 24.—Pope Pius today gave private audience to State Senator Salvatore A. Cotillo, of New York, the interview lasting more than half an hour. The pontiff showed keen interest in and great knowledge of the emigration problem and expressed hope that a definite settlement would be reached. Senator Cotillo is chairman of the New York state joint legislative committee to investigate exploitation of immigrants.

Henry Muench, Atlantan, Made President Georgia Jewelers' Association

Henry Muench, of Atlanta, was elected president of the Georgia Jewelers' association Tuesday at the closing sessions of the annual convention held at the Ansley hotel. George Daniel, of Marietta, was elected vice-president and H. S. Banta, of Newnan, secretary-treasurer. Macon was selected as convention city for 1924.

Activities of the closing day of the convention, after the business sessions, included an automobile trip to Stone Mountain and in the evening a banquet at the Ansley. W. M. Brownlee was the principal speaker at the banquet, taking as his subject "Cooperation."

The closing banquet was an elaborate one at which wives of the jewelers were guests. Miss Madeline Hauff, contralto soprano, accompanied by William Hauff, sang several selections. Fred M. Schomburg, retiring president, was toastmaster.

In closing the Atlanta convention, leaders expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the work done and appreciative of efforts in their behalf by the committee in charge of entertainment.

ODUM IN HOSPITAL Wrenches Back in Florists' Tug-of-War.

"Boys will be boys." But it doesn't follow that men will—or can—be—kids again.

As witness the sad case of J. E. Odum, district manager of the J. E. Odum Life Insurance company and manager of the Dahl company of landscape architects.

Last week the florists of Atlanta went on their annual outing and picnic. Mr. Odum was on hand, and under the spell of hilarity that ruled the occasion, undertook to lead the Dahl forces Westway over Westway and Wachendorf in a tug-of-war.

Result—Mr. Odum will be glad for any of his friends to visit him at St. Joseph's hospital, where he is recovering from the effects of a dislocated back. The invitation holds good for a week or so, at the end of which time Mr. Odum expects to be back on the job again.

Henceforth, it might be added, he will confine his activities to business and will forego the thrills of tug-of-war.

ATLANTAN PROMOTED Walter B. Elcock Advances With Portland Cement Co.

Walter B. Elcock, former division engineer for the Portland Cement company in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Idaho, and lately manager of the Atlanta office of the same company, has been made assistant general manager of the southeastern office.

Mr. Elcock was a major in the Eight-second division for two years, after which time he coached Oglethorpe's football team. He has many friends in Atlanta.

RAILWAY ADVERTISES ATLANTA'S PROSPECTS

An illustrated card, pointing out the progressiveness of Atlanta, was recently issued by the Louisville and Nashville railroad and placed before every passenger entering every dining car for a period of one week.

A picture of Peachtree street in the business district featured the card, and was supplemented by mention of the city's advantages, as evidenced by its business, educational and artistic endeavors. It treated of Atlanta's railroad facilities, its season of grand opera and its unusual growth in population.

MORGAN T. WYNNE OPENS OWN OFFICE

Morgan T. Wynne has resigned his position as manager of the renting department of S. B. Turman & Co., effective August 21, 1923, after which time he is to be in business for himself under the firm name, The Wynne Realty Co., located to be announced later.

To Fence Fair Grounds.

An unclimbable wire fence costing $22,500 will soon encircle the Southeastern Fair grounds and Lakewood park. J. Oscar Mills, president of the Fair association, and R. M. Stripling, secretary, signed a contract Tuesday which calls for its completion by October 1, before the opening of the Southeastern Fair this fall.

Liquor Agents Freed of Murder Charge in Greene

Greensboro, Ga., July 24.—At the conclusion of its investigation into the slaying of Jeff and J. B. Smith, alleged rum runners of Athens, by six prohibition officers in a rum raid last month, the Greene county grand jury, in session here, by a vote of 12 to 11, today returned a no bill, which frees them all.

J. H. Gastley, federal prohibition enforcement officer; Sheriff W. J. Sturdivant, of Tallapoosa county; Ed Howell, Tallapoosa county policeman; Iverson Lovejoy, Greene county policeman; E. N. Brooks, of Union Point, and J. T. L. Darby, of White Plains, were the six who were originally held in connection with the slaying.

Brooks and Darby were released shortly after the slaying in a habous corpus hearing before Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, in Atlanta.

The other four were remanded to the Greene county grand jury for further investigation. The grand jury wrestled with the case for nearly twenty-four hours before returning its "no bill."

Prosecuting attorneys would not discuss further action in the case.

LITTLE TIFTON GIRL HURT AS ICE WAGON AND AUTO COLLIDE

Macon, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—Jewell Camp, 8-year-old daughter of J. T. Camp, of Tifton, Ga., was cut about the face and body today when an automobile in which she was riding with her parents, collided with an ice wagon on Broadway.

The child's wounds were dressed at the hospital and are not believed to be serious.

CONDUCT ANTI-WEEVIL PROGRAM IN FAYETTE

Fayetteville, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—C. V. Shirley, county agent, assisted by F. C. Ward, cotton specialist from the State College of Agriculture; L. J. Skinner, district agent; J. F. Bazemore, agriculturist for the Central of Georgia railway and several business men of Fayetteville, is conducting a series of field meetings over Fayette county in the interest of the boll weevil fight that is being carried on by practically every cotton farmer in the county.

Mr. Ward says that this is the critical time for the cotton grower but if a good fight is put up Fayette county should make a much better crop than last year as the prospects are much brighter now.

Macon Bar Approves Proposal to Increase Court Officers' Pay

Macon, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—Members of the Macon bar association in session here today endorsed the more on the part of Mrs. Viola Napier and Nat K. Winship, two of Bibb's representatives in the legislature, to increase the salary of the judge of the municipal court of Macon from $3,600 to $4,800. The proposed bill would also increase the salaries of the other officers of the court.

Ben J. Fowler, another member of the legislature from this county recently introduced a bill to cut the salary of the judge of the municipal court to $3,000.

BARRETT REFUSES TO NAME RECEIVER

Macon, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—Judge William H. Barrett, of the United States district court, today refused to appoint a receiver for the Bayne-Martin Drug company, of Macon, against which an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed last week.

The business was sold last week to Mitchell, Williams & Mack, and in his order today Judge Barrett held the new owners responsible and ordered that the business be continued in the regular way, but that nothing in the way of equipment or fixtures be sold.

FAMILY OF FIVE, TRAPPED BY FIRE, HAVE CLOSE CALL

Columbus, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—Five persons narrowly escaped death in Phoenix City Monday morning when Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ford and three children came near to being trapped in the house which was totally destroyed by fire.

The Ford family was asleep in a front room of the house when the fire broke out, and a stifling sensation that came to Mrs. Ford as the room gradually filled up with smoke, awakened her just in time to arouse her husband and to hurry the children to safety.

The children, Virginia, nine; Clarence, seven; and Elizabeth, five, were all asleep. The extent of the damage to the dwelling was estimated at $5,000.

Athens City Council Changes Its Tactics In Civil Service Fight

Athens, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—City council here has changed its tactics to get representation on the civil service commission. For three years an annual attempt has been made to abolish the commission and bring back into use the police and fire committee of council and place them in charge of these civic departments. These attempts have failed, however.

A few months ago council voted to amend the law doing away with the present method of electing the commissioners from the city at large and elect the members from council itself. This plan also struck a snag.

Now council has decided to have a bill introduced in the legislature increasing the personnel of the commission, three to be elected from the city at large and two from council. This latter plan seems to have the approval of the Clarke legislators. And council may get what it wants, a hand in the administration of the police and fire departments.

INCREASE EXPECTED IN MUSCOGEE DIGEST

Columbus, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—The Muscogee county tax digest for 1923 will be completed the latter part of the week, according to Tax Receiver W. H. Spect. Indications are that there will be an increase in valuation this year over the last, it was stated by the official.

The valuation in 1922 was $37,731,003, a gain of $546,705 over that of the year previous.

Fashion Brings Forth Her Modes For Autumn

Autumn modes—modes that strike a note entirely new and wholly pleasant. Autumn modes—but the wearing of them isn't to be postponed until the leaves begin to turn—dear, no! Trust Dame Fashion for that. Wisely she has created them of materials light enough and cool enough and dainty enough so that one may comfortably don the newest modes through the last days of summer. Another surprise—the littleness of their prices!

They're $24.75 and $34.75

The Materials

Flat Crepe
Satin-Faced
Canton Crepe
Satin-Backed Canton Crepe
Satin Charmeuse

They have a tendency toward knife-pleated skirts—some of the skirts don knife-pleated flounces that flare delightfully as one walks—some of them don two flounces; others fly long knife-pleated panels; still others wear knife-pleated apron overskirts; and one even finds skirts that are one circular tier after another. Here is a dress covered with rat-tail embroidery; there is one with novel braid ornaments and long tassels; still another is headed—and there are others—scores of them. Colors are black, brown, navy, cocoa and gray.

New! Nellie Don Aprons

They Bring Daintiness and Prettiness into the Kitchen

Style and beauty enter into the creation of Nellie Don aprons. One finds out-of-the-ordinary touches—tiny frills scalloped about the neck and in wheels to hold the belts in place, dainty stitching, etc.

They're fashioned of sheer pin checked tissue, fine gingham, pretty cretonnes with floral design against a plaid background, all white aprons for Beauty Parlor work or housewives who love to be epic and span, white dimity checks with checked gingham collars and lovely flowered flaxons. Prices start at $1.95 and end at $4.95.

Sweaters Clear at Half Price

What sort are they? The very sweaters you're hoping they are. Sweaters of wool, fine mohair, fiber silk and mixtures—sweaters that you can put on now and wear through fall days. They're made in slipover styles with sleeves—in straight and Balkan blouse styles. Tan, blue, brown, green, gray and a variety of combinations.

Priced for Quick Clearance

Dainty Dimity Blouses $1.95

Sort of blouses that look sweet with sweaters. Some of them show hand embroidery, some of them are even hand made throughout. Of striped dimity, soisette and voile. Round collars and turn-back cuffs. White and tan.

FIGHT ON CONVICT LEASE IS RENEWED

Montgomery, Ala., July 24.—A bill providing that no county convicts shall be let for hire after January 1, 1924, was introduced in the senate by Walter S. Browder, of Birmingham, this afternoon. A marriage of Alabamaans out of the state to avoid the law would be declared void by the bill.

AMERICAN DOLLARS WILL SAVE ISLAND OF "DIVINE SARAH"

Paris, July 24.—American dollars, which flowed lavishly into the coffers of Sarah Bernhardt during the last twenty years of her life, will save her island home, off the Brittany coast, from being transformed into a popular resort, with a restaurant and a dance hall, as had been contemplated by a group of French purveyors of amusement.

Belle-Ile-en-Mer is to be the site of a Sarah Bernhardt museum, a place of pilgrimage for the followers of the great tragedienne, with also a home for aged actors and actresses. It is thought that the body of the "woman of the golden voice" will eventually be interred there.

Paul Godreuil, head of a group of friends of Mme. Bernhardt, who obtained her signature to a sale contract two weeks before her death, announces that, thanks to the offer of a number of wealthy Americans, who desire their names to be kept secret for the present, the island will remain exactly as it was when the actress spent her summers there.

The Power Is On

From the huge gray bulk of the cement plant's buildings come the whir of belts, the rattle of conveyors, the clatter of tumbling rock, the din of great machines.

In the kiln house there is a steady roar from the great revolving steel kilns as their 30-foot tongue of flame licks up the fuel.

The power is on.

Power—unceasing power—is working to convert limestone and clay or similar materials into portland cement. Millions of tons of rock must be crushed—huge chunks to smaller particles, then to sand-like fineness, and finally to a powder finer than flour.

Then comes the burning to glass-hard clinker. After this clinker has been ground and reground until at least 78 percent will pass through a sieve finer than silk—a sieve with 40,000 openings to the square inch—you have portland cement. But these are only a few of the more than 80 operations in manufacture.

To supply the power necessary for one of the large cement plants requires a generating station capable of serving the homes, lighting the streets and operating many factories in a city of more than 150,000 population.

Into every dollar's worth of cement the manufacturer puts four times as much power as goes into the average dollar's worth of factory products the country over.

Today, in all corners of the United States, 120 plants are working steadily to supply the country with cement.

Full power is on.

RADIO DEPARTMENT

DELIGHTFUL HOUR GIVEN BY ARTISTS

Miss Bittick Sponsors the Program—Jimmy Finley Bids Listeners Good-bye After Singing "Maggie, Yes Mam."

Miss Ethel Bittick, talented young soprano, sponsored the 6 o'clock program at Station WGM Tuesday night, which offered a delightful variety of vocal and piano numbers including a duet. The other artists appearing with Miss Bittick were Mrs. Ira W. Lowe, Miss Jewell Heath, Mr. Heath and Jimmy Finley.

Miss Bittick's appearance last night was a signal success and her return was heartily welcomed by listeners. She entertained them with a number of vocal solos, including Massenet's "Elegie," "Macushla," "Little Mother of Mine," "To a Wild Rose," playing her own accompaniment for this number, and "Mother O' Mine."

Mrs. Lowe made her radio debut from Station WGM at the early hour and her accompaniment for the vocal numbers were given in a refreshing and enjoyable manner.

Miss Heath is another newcomer in the world of radio entertainment and is the possessor of a charming voice, well-trained and suited for the numbers given by her which included "The False Prophet," "If I Built a World for You," "Each a Lomond," and "Bird of Love Divine."

Mr. Heath, brother of Miss Jewell Heath, recently returned from South America where he lived for a number of months, gave a brief and entertaining talk on big game hunting in South America and the other sports indulged in by sport-lovers.

Jimmy Finley was heard for the last time by listeners from Station WGM and sang and played several of the comic songs which he introduced by radio during his appearances at the "Old Reliable" station, featuring "Maggie, Yes Mam," in response to numerous requests received by Atlanta listeners.

TORONTO BANDITS ROB MESSENGERS

Toronto, July 24.—Six bandits engaged in a pistol battle today with a dozen bank messengers in the heart of the financial district, and the bandits won.

The robbers fled in a stolen car with about $130,000, leaving three messengers lying wounded on the sidewalk. Two may die.

The messengers were walking along Jordan street from the clearing house carrying pouches of money when the bandits drew up in their car. The robbers immediately opened fire.

In the fight David Campbell, messenger, Sterling bank, fell with bullets in the left lung and shoulder. A. F. Dick, Union bank messenger, crumpled with a wound in the abdomen, and James W. Harris was shot in the chest. Campbell and Dick tonight were in a critical condition. The money stolen belonged to the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Sterling bank.

Geraldine Farrar
Figures in Plans
For Health Resort

Brattleboro, Vt., July 24.—Geraldine Farrar, prima donna, is the dominating figure in the purchase of the 300-acre estate of the late Theodore N. Vail, at Lendonville, which will be utilized as a health resort. Major Frederick de Trafford Craven, a retired English army officer, who has been conducting negotiations for the purchase of the place, stated today: "He said the deal involved more than $1,000,000."

The present owners of the property are John B. Manley, of this city, and David L. Grapes, of Lendonville, who bought the property in 1921.

Major Craven said that among others associated with Miss Farrar in the deal were Doctors Smith and Owen B. Ames, of Boston, Dr. George R. Anderson and John B. Manley, of Brattleboro, and himself.

"Have you had the water tested to find whether there are any bacteria in it?" asked the visitor at the camp. "Oh, no," replied the camper, "but we know the alcoholic contents of our drinks is all right, and as long as we only use the water for washing we should worry about the bacteria in it."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Great Midnight Program Is Planned for Wednesday

Mrs. Mathews, Miss Eberhardt, Dendy, Clotworthy and Heltons Are Scheduled on Concert.

A sextet of some of Atlanta's best known radio artists will be presented at midnight tonight when Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution signs on the air for its regular Pacific coast concert.

In view of the fact that the broadcast tonight will be the concluding Wednesday midnight concert before WGM is turned over in its entirety to the Georgia School of Technology, a special effort was made to arrange a broadcast by those who have contributed so generously and so well to the entertainment of the long distance listeners to The Constitution.

In a surge of the program will be one of radio's best known stars. She is Mrs. Rose L. Mathews, a dramatic soprano, who has been heard from one end of the United States to the other in her concerts from Station WGM. Her voice is particularly well suited for radio broadcasting and she has gained nation-wide popularity.

Assisting Mrs. Mathews in the vocal part of the program will be Thomas Dendy, sensational young baritone, and John B. Clotworthy, a tenor, whose numbers from WGM have elicited praise from listeners on all sides.

Mr. Dendy has specialized in his training under the direction of Signor E. Volpi in operatic numbers since his voice is best suited to such selections. Mr. Clotworthy on the other hand is best in the ballads and semi-classical music which he will feature tonight. He is also a pupil of Signor Volpi.

The instrumentalists who have consented to entertain long distance listeners on Wednesday's last midnight broadcast will include Miss Matilde Eberhardt, of the Mayer Piano school who in addition to playing virtually all of the accompaniments, will also give several classical pieces. Eberhardt was one of the first entertainers to be heard from WGM and her reputation has grown with the station.

The other instrumentalists who will be heard at midnight tonight are Eric A. Helton, melophone soloist and his brother, Wendell J. Helton, cornetist.

Both of the Heltons have been heard frequently from Station WGM and it is fitting that they should participate in this special broadcast from The Constitution. In addition to giving melophone and cornet solos, the Heltons will give several duets in which Miss Eberhardt will accompany them at the piano.

Ways of Keeping Slender Outlined By Mrs. Anderson

Listeners to WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, last evening at 6 o'clock heard the last talk on women's subjects by Mrs. Martha Goodie Anderson of the woman's department of The Constitution.

The talk which Mrs. Anderson gave last evening was particularly good, the subject of it being "Ways of Keeping Slender." In this she struck a subject of deep interest to women.

Mrs. Anderson last evening also answered a number of questions which have been asked her in connection with her talks on radio. One of the questions was: "How should a man dress for a wedding in the morning?"

The Georgia senate by a vote of 30 to 3 adopted Tuesday the measure of Senator Stovall, of the twenty-ninth district, providing that no marriage license can be issued in Georgia until the names of both prospective bride and bridegroom have been placed upon a bulletin board in the county clerk's office for five days in advance of issuance of the license.

The effect of such a measure, according to Senator Stovall, will be to stop runaway marriages, prevent persons from fraudulently remarriage who have not been legally separated, and lessen the divorce evil. The measure now goes to the house for action.

Atlanta "Reno of South."

A hot verbal attack on the laxness of Georgia divorce laws in which the city of Atlanta was described by Senator E. R. King, of the eleventh district, as "the Reno of the South" was launched in the senate Tuesday morning when a measure seeking to amend the present divorce laws was up for consideration. The bill was defeated by a vote of 19 to 17.

Senator King was discussing his bill providing for elimination of certain grounds for legal separation including "cruel treatment" and "habitual intoxication" from the divorce laws, when he called to the attention of the senate that "Georgia divorce laws are entirely too lax in the granting of separations."

"Too Many Divorce Grounds."

The Georgia courts hold that not only physical but mental pain is grounds for a divorce," he declared. "If a man takes a drink of liquor—and there are very few who don't in Georgia—his wife can obtain a divorce on the grounds that her husband is a habitual drunkard."

CONCESSION MADE TO MAIL CARRIERS IN WARM WEATHER

Washington, July 24.—A further concession to the fact that warm weather frequently is uncomfortable has been made by Postmaster General New. Carriers were authorized in a ruling issued today to wear shirts, preferably of light gray or white, and belts, instead of heavier blouses or shirt waists. At one time carriers were required to wear coats and vests regardless of the temperature.

Eleventh Ward Wants New School; Council Candidates Make Talk

At a meeting of the Eleventh Ward Improvement league held Tuesday night, a movement was launched to have the city begin the construction of the new school building on South Whiteford avenue. The building is said to have been provided for in the passage of the bond issue making appropriations for the construction of new schools in the city.

Leo Sudderth, Atlanta lawyer and candidate for councilman from the eleventh ward, was one of the speakers at the meeting. W. R. Johnston, present councilman of the ward, also made an address in which he said that improvements which the ward needed were in sight. Homer G. Duncan is secretary of the improvement league.

PRINTERS PREPARING FOR BIG CONVENTION

The Atlanta Typographical Union, No. 48, is busy preparing for the visitors to the convention, August 13-18, of the International Typographical Union. Among the important matters to receive the attention of the convention will be plans for the enlargement of the tuberculosis infirmary at Colorado Springs.

The program of entertainment includes a sight-seeing tour taking in Stone Mountain and other points of interest, Monday afternoon, August 13, and a barbecue Tuesday afternoon, August 14, at Lakewood. In addition to these there will be several other events for the entertainment of the women visitors. Formal sessions of the convention will be held at the city auditorium. The Ansley hotel will be the headquarters of the convention.

The convention of three union organizations will bring approximately 1,000 visitors to Atlanta during August. The International Typographical Union convenes here August 13-18, and the Women's Auxiliary will hold its convention at the same time. The week previous the Mailers' Union will hold its convention here, and many of the mailers are expected to remain over for the printers' meeting.

MRS. BURNETT IS HURT IN COLLISION

En route to town from her home on Peachtree road, Mrs. Gordon Burnett, wife of the president of the Ponce de Leon Ice company, was severely shaken up and bruised in a collision Tuesday morning between her automobile and a motor truck of the Smiley Sand company. She was one of four persons in the day's traffic casualty list.

The accident occurred near Brookwood station on Peachtree road. C. O. Jones, of 150 Grove street, was driving the sand truck, while Mrs. Burnett's negro chauffeur, Jim Jones, was driving her car.

Mrs. Burnett explained to the police who investigated the collision that the motor truck driver was not at fault, and, at her request, no cases were docketed.

Woman Badly Hurt.

Injured by an automobile at Bellwood avenue and Chestnut street early Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. W. S. Garvin, of 205 Kennedy street, is in a critical condition in the Grady hospital. Surgeons stated that she probably has a fractured skull, besides severe bruising about the head and body and possible internal injuries.

When first carried to the hospital Mrs. Garvin refused to allow doctors to treat her. She became hysterical and demanded that she be released and allowed to return home, refusing to give the doctors her name. Later in the evening, however, she lapsed into unconsciousness.

The driver of the machine which figured in the accident was J. C. Bryan, 108 Julian street. His wife and Crawford Bennett, 15-year-old boy, who lives with them, were in the car. All state that Bryan could not have avoided the accident.

"Mrs. Garvin, whose husband I have known for some time, started across Bellwood avenue at Chestnut street, crossing from the west side to the east side. I was going north (toward Marietta street), and when an out-bound motorist blew his horn, it frightened her and she ran from in front of that car into the side of my machine," Mr. Bryan stated.

Stops to Help Victim.

Bryan stopped his car immediately and he and his wife got out to render assistance, helping her into the automobile that carried her to the Grady hospital.

Due to the precariousness of Mrs. Garvin's condition, Police Captain A. J. Holcomb directed officers to bring Bryan to the stationhouse for further examination.

On Bellwood avenue, not many blocks from where Mrs. Garvin was hurt, there was a collision between an automobile and a motor truck, which resulted in both drivers being severely shaken up and bruised, and both machines being damaged. This occurred Monday at Edgewood avenue and Lindsey street. The truck was driven by H. L. Davis, of 250 Bellwood avenue, while Rev. J. W. Vandy, traveling preacher, was driving the touring car. Both requested the police not to make any cases.

Two other persons treated at the Grady hospital Monday reported that they were hurt in automobile accidents. One of them, W. M. Shaw, 20, of 95 Manigault street, was seriously hurt. Besides a fractured ankle and having bruised foot, he probably has internal injuries, surgeons fear.

Child Is Injured.

The other victim was 8-year-old Mary Johnson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, 50 Lake avenue. She suffered a severe wound on the head, besides cuts and scratches about the hands and legs.

Details concerning the two latter injuries had not been learned late Monday night. No report of the accidents had been filed at police station.

REALTORS OFFER SERVICES GRATIS TO PARK PROJECT

The Atlanta Real Estate board, in a resolution passed Tuesday by the executive committee, offered its services free to the city "in any way it sees fit to use them in connection with the securing of options for the site of the proposed central park, and that no fees shall be accepted from either property owners or the city of Atlanta in the purchase of the required lands."

This announcement was made by L. W. Reeves, secretary of the board. The resolution adopted at Tuesday's meeting is as follows:

Whereas, at the request of the members of the Atlanta real estate board, the city council of Atlanta has authorized a $25,000 bond election for park purposes.

Be it resolved, That this board go cheerfully on record as being interested in the central park proposition, solely as a civic improvement.

Be it resolved further, That the board members of the real estate board of the city in any way it sees fit to use them in connection with the securing of options and that no fees shall be accepted from either property owners or the city of Atlanta in the purchase of the required lands.

PATTERSON HOLDS MORRELL PAPERS PENDING PROBE

Requisition papers are being held at the office of Judge T. E. Patterson, of the state prison commission, for William Morrell, alias William McGarrity, who is now being held in New York for Georgia authorities.

Morrell, who escaped from the Jasper county chain gang last March while serving a sentence of five to seven years for forgery, is said to have told New York officials he would kill himself rather than return to Georgia where he claims he was the victim of brutal lashings that left perceptible marks on his body.

Judge Patterson stated Tuesday that a special inspector has been ordered to investigate the conflict's charges. He said that Morrell was whipped twice before his escape.

"Our records show that Morrell was whipped in Jasper county, January 6, 1923," Judge Patterson said. "He was given six licks for an infraction of rules. He escaped from this camp in March. While confined in the Fayette county gang, Morrell was whipped for disobeying rules. This was his first whipping and he was given three licks."

"We moved him from Fayette county to the state farm at Milledgeville, where he received no punishment, according to our records. I do not consider that Morrell was treated brutally. We have ordered a special inspector, however, to make a full investigation of the case."

WORK ON MARKET COMMENCES TODAY REPORTS COL. PEEL

Announcement that work on the municipal market on Edgewood avenue will be begun today, was made by Mayor Sims Tuesday by Colonel W. L. Peel, head of the group of Atlanta civic leaders in charge of the market.

E. H. Turman has been awarded the contract for a $150,000 building. Its completion is expected within four months, according to Colonel Peel. The market will be financed through the sale of bonds which the citizens committee agreed to underwrite and issue.

The market will be bounded by Edgewood avenue, Bell, Butler and Bonas streets.

BILL TO APPOINT DENTISTS TO STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

A bill will be introduced in the house of representatives Wednesday which provides for the appointment of at least two dentists of dental surgery as members of the state board of health. The bill is sponsored by several members, and is supported by the dentists of the state.

It provides that the appointments to be made under this amendment to the original bill shall be made by the governor to succeed present members whose terms expire January 1, 1925. The bill does not increase the size of the board.

Man Charged by Girl With Annoyance Told To Leave Atlanta

Judge T. O. Hathcock, of the municipal court, Tuesday directed that the peace bond of $200 held against Ben Simmons Cohen, of Rome, Ga., upon the allegations of Miss Eudell Harden, of 38 Capitol avenue, be dissolved, provided Cohen left the city within twenty-four hours. Miss Harden charged that Cohen annoyed and persecuted her since they became engaged to be married several weeks ago. Cohen stated that he proposed to Miss Harden while they were living up with a corpse of a dead friend.

Miss Harden also took out a warrant, alleging that Cohen had worn a shrine pin, although never a member of the fraternal order. This warrant was dismissed Tuesday for want of prosecution.

Coal

The Community Builder

Coal is to-day one of the basic necessities of our industrial life. Cut off the supply, and most of the wheels of manufacture, transportation and trade would cease to turn. Millions of people would be thrown out of work and much discomfort and actual suffering would result.

Coal is a great community builder—and the very foundation of the commercial life of many great cities and population centers.

The present high place that the Birmingham District holds in the industrial life of the country dates from the activities of the L. & N. Railroad in building to the large and valuable deposits of coal and iron ore in the country surrounding Birmingham. The Birmingham Mineral Division and its branches now total over 300 miles, and the production of coal for 1922, on the B. M. and the S. & N. A. Divisions in Alabama, was 90,032 cars—or four and one-quarter million tons.

In three of the large coal-producing counties of Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky—Perry, Harlan and Letcher, which are served by the L. & N. and where the coal fields appear to be almost inexhaustible, during the last decade within which the activities of the coal business were begun through the L. & N.'s construction of tracks into this territory—the increase in population over that of the previous decade was more than one thousand per cent; and in Perry County the assessed value of property increased approximately six thousand per cent. It has been stated that so far, the vast sources of coal in this section have been merely scratched.

From the latest available figures it is estimated that approximately 410,000,000 tons of coal were mined in the United States during 1922. In that year more than 23,000,000 tons, or 6% of the total output—exclusive of the coal used in its operation—originated at the mines along the L. & N.

The importance of the L. & N. Railroad as a coal carrier and the part it plays in community building are thus clearly indicated.

Railway Transportation In the United States

By Albert B. Cummins, United States Senator from Iowa, and Chairman of the Committee on Interstate Commerce of the Senate.

Article III. Experience of the Railroads Following Government Operation. Insufficient Earnings of Some Class 1 Roads and of Nearly All Shortline Roads.

In 1920, a year that embraced two months of government operation and ten months of private operation, the net railway operating income of the class 1 railways was $58,151,863. The phrase, "net railway operating income" means, in the reporting and accounting system of the interstate commerce commission, the sum applicable to the payment of dividends upon stock or interest upon bonds. The above amount does not include the sums paid by the government under the standard contracts with the railways from March 1 to September 1, 1920. It is about one-third of 1 per cent upon the valuation of all the railway property, as fixed by the interstate commerce commission, and about one-tenth of the annual interest upon outstanding bonds and obligations.

In 1921, the net railway operating income of these roads was $615,946,614; about 3 1/3 per cent upon the value so fixed, and just a trifle more than was required to pay interest on bonds and other obligations. For the year 1922, the net railway operating income of these roads was $776,966,590; about 4 1/6 per cent upon the value, and something like $150,000,000 more than enough to pay interest on bonds and other obligations, and which could have been applied to dividends upon stock.

At this point it may be remarked that notwithstanding the shortage of facilities there was more freight moved in 1922 than in any year in the history of the country. In order that every reader may understand the full significance of these figures it ought to be remembered that the only general increase in freight or passenger rates which has occurred since March 1, 1920, took effect on the first of September, 1920. It must also be borne in mind that these statistics I have given are for class 1 railways as a whole. Some of them made more than this percentage and some very much less, and inasmuch as we must provide for the entire country and each of its communities it is necessary to examine the subject in a little closer detail.

Expenses Not Made.
In 1922, and under the high rates then prevailing, twenty-three of these class 1 railways representing a main-track mileage of more than 8,000 miles failed to earn the expenses of maintenance and operation, the aggregate deficit being between nine and ten millions of dollars. Of these same railways, companies representing a main-track mileage of 23,000 miles, earned from a fraction of 1 per cent to less than 3 per cent. Of the 30,000 miles of so-called shortline railways, that is to say, railways having gross operating revenues of less than $1,000,000 per year, not included in the above computation, many of the lines earned less than operating expenses and very few of them earned as much as 3 per cent on the lowest possible estimate of the value of their properties.

These are startling statistics, gathered from a year in which the railways carried the maximum volume of traffic at the highest rates ever known. It is my deliberate judgment that under present conditions a railway that does not earn a net operating income of at least 5 1/2 per cent upon the value of the property rendering the service, cannot secure the new capital absolutely necessary for the enlargement of its facilities to meet the expanding demand of our constantly increasing production, and that railways which earn less than 3 per cent upon that value must eventually be abandoned and dismantled. This means, if the situation remains as it is, inadequate additions and betterments upon about one-half of our entire mileage and the complete disuse of between 60,000 and 70,000 miles of railway which now render the only transportation service for many of the communities of this country.

I have profound faith in the genius of our institutions and I am not suggesting that this indescribable injury will ever be inflicted upon our people, but I am suggesting that the solution of the problem will require something more than force, denunciation or harsh criticism. No one knows better than I do the flagrant offenses which have been committed by railway promoters in the construction and the financing of many of our railways, and no one has been more active than I have been during the last twenty years in the effort to prevent a repetition of these offenses. Under existing legislation a repetition is impossible and to secure that legislation I have devoted the best years of my life. The object which interests me is to take this railway system of ours as it is and make it competent to render the constantly increasing service which the welfare of the country requires; it must be maintained and advanced to its proper state of efficiency and adequacy. Hereafter I have, in the main, been treating the subject as though the railways were all owned by a single corporation. They are, in fact, owned and operated by thousands of corporations or more. The number of class 1 roads varies from year to year; in 1922 they numbered a little less than 200. While I have referred to the insufficient earning of some of the class 1 roads and nearly all of the shortline roads, I desire now to take up that phase of the subject from another standpoint.

Earnings of Various Roads.
There is little difficulty in dealing with such roads as the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Erie, or the Chesapeake & Ohio, in the east; the Louisville & Nashville, or the Southern, in the south; or the Chicago & Northwestern, the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, the Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, the Atchafalaya, the Santa Fe, the Northern Pacific, or the Great Northern, in the west. To those I have named may be added many other comparable roads. These properties will be able under any probable legislation to maintain themselves but what will we do with such roads (and I will take them in their alphabetical order) as the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, with its 640 miles of main track, that in 1922 failed to earn operating expenses nearly one-half of a million of dollars; the Atlantic City Railroad, with its 177 miles, operating at a net loss of nearly $200,000; the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, with its 554 miles, earning less than $1,000 per mile; the Central of Vermont, with its 532 miles, earning less than $800 per mile; the Chicago & Alton, with its 1,050 miles, earning about $1,500 per mile; the Chicago & Erie, with its 270 miles, suffering a net loss of $1,500,000; the Chicago Great Western, with its 1,500 miles, and a net income of only $205,000; the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, with 11,000 miles and a net income of a little more than $1,000 per mile; the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis, with its 247 miles and a net loss of $450,000; the Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western, with its 347 miles and a net income of $60,000; the Colorado & Southern, with its 1,100 miles and a net loss of $1,000 per mile; the Denver & Salt Lake, with its 235 miles and a net loss of $150,000; the Detroit & Mackinac, with its 385 miles and a net income of $57,000; the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton (Ford's road), with its 455 miles and a net loss in operation of $150,000; the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, with its 400 miles and a net income of $87,000; the Fort Smith & Western, with its 250 miles, earning about $600 per mile; the Fort Worth & Rio Grande, with its 225 miles and a net loss of $250,000; the Georgia & Florida, with its 405 miles and a net income of $100,000; the Georgia, Southern & Florida, with its 402 miles and a net income of $395,000; the Green Bay & Western, with its 258 miles and a net income of $100,000; the Kansas, Mexico & Orient, with its 748 miles, failing to earn operating expenses by $475,000; the Los Angeles & Salt Lake, with its 1,140 miles, earning a trifle over $1,000 per mile; the Louisiana, Railway & Navigation company, with its 343 miles and a net income of $88,000; the Minneapolis & St. Louis, with its 1,650 miles and a net income of $83,800; the Mississippi Central, with its 259 miles and net income of about $800 per mile; the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, with its 1,738 miles and a net income of less than $750 per mile; the Missouri Pacific, with its 7,291 miles and a net income of a trifle more than $1,000 per mile; Morgan's Louisiana & Texas Railway and Steamship company, with its 400 miles and a net income of $13,000; the New York, Ontario & Western, with its 569 miles and a net income of substantially less than $1,000 per mile; the New York, Susquehanna & Western, with its 135 miles and a net loss of $201,000; the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company, with its 2,231 miles and a net loss of more than $1,000,000; the Panhandle & Santa Fe, with its 857 miles, and a net income of $20 per mile; the Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City, with its 252 miles and a net loss of $168,000; the St. Joseph & Grand Island, with its 258 miles, earning about $300 per mile; the St. Louis, Southwestern of Texas, with its 870 miles and a net loss of $1,200,000; the San Antonio & Aransas Pass, with its 739 miles, earning about $800 per mile; the San Antonio, Uvalde & Gulf, with its 317 miles and a net income of $700,000; the Tennessee Central, with its 292 miles and a net loss of $250,000; the Texas & New Orleans, with its 507 miles and a net loss of $90,000; the Toledo, Peoria & Western, with its 247 miles and a net loss of $212,500; the Trinity & Brazos Valley, with its 308 miles and a net loss of $13,800; the Ulster & Delaware, with its 128 miles and a net loss of $47,000; the Wheeling & Lake Erie, with its 511 miles, earning about $750 per mile; or the Wichita Falls & Northwestern, with its 329 miles and a net loss of $80,000.

When I have used the words "net loss" in the foregoing statement I have meant that the road referred to earned that much less than the cost of operation; and when I have used the words "earning" or "net income" I have meant the net railway operating income applicable to the payment of interest on bonds or other obligations or dividends upon capital stock. It must also be remembered that in each instance I have referred to 1922, the year of the largest traffic and the highest rates ever known. While I have mentioned a number of these roads I have not mentioned a great many others in the same predicament simply because they are of less importance; nor have I mentioned any of the hundreds of roads having gross operating revenues of less than $1,000,000. Most of these roads have not been able properly to maintain themselves and none of them have been able to add facilities which the increasing commerce of the country requires. It can be safely said that unless these roads, and many others like them, can better their condition they will remain for an indefinite time, incapable of rendering efficient service, and scores of them must be completely abandoned.

I will take up in my next article the plans that have been suggested for brining about an improvement in this intolerable condition. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

METHODISTS PLAN LONG HOSPITAL

When the annual meeting of the hospital board of the Southern Methodist church, which will launch the "Gold Cross" campaign, convenes at the Wesley Memorial church this morning, William Lawrence, of Roswell, New Mexico, will make an appeal to members to establish the proposed tubercular hospital in that city. It was said that Mr. Lawrence will make the appeal and also an offer to assist in the establishment of the institution.

The board has plans for the establishment of such an institution west of the Mississippi, and the city of Roswell is said to be making a bid through Mr. Lawrence.

The purpose of the board is to launch the "Gold Cross" movement in the Methodist church. The meeting today will be presided over by Bishop Warren Agin Canfield, and plans for the Gold Cross will be perfected.

"The order of the Gold Cross," said Rev. C. C. Jarrell, secretary, "will be the Red Cross of the nation. The purpose of founding the order is to supplement the work being done in hospitals, especially the charity work. The funds obtained will not be used to endow institutions already established, but will be used to defray current expenses."

"There will be different classes of membership: junior, student and adult. The order of 'Knight of the Gold Cross' will be conferred upon subscribers making contributions of $10,000 or more to the fund. There will be no limit to the subscriptions."

"It is the desire of the committee launching the 'movement to enroll every Methodist in the church in the order," said Dr. Jarrell. "We are now trying to get a non-sectarian work in our hospitals, and we are not going to limit membership in the Gold Cross to members of the Methodist church alone. Everyone who wishes to become a member of the organization, regardless of religion or creed, will be accepted in the order."

Dr. Jarrell said that members of the Gold Cross in the North Georgia conference would raise not less than $7,000 annually and that southern Methodists would raise between $400,000 and $500,000 for the movement by the next meeting of the general conference in 1926.

The general hospital board is the only general board of the southern Methodist church with headquarters in Atlanta. Officers for the board are seated in the Wesley Memorial church. The meeting today will be attended by influential Methodists from all over the southern conference.

When I have used the words "net loss" in the foregoing statement I have meant that the road referred to earned that much less than the cost of operation; and when I have used the words "earning" or "net income" I have meant the net railway operating income applicable to the payment of interest on bonds or other obligations or dividends upon capital stock. It must also be remembered that in each instance I have referred to 1922, the year of the largest traffic and the highest rates ever known. While I have mentioned a number of these roads I have not mentioned a great many others in the same predicament simply because they are of less importance; nor have I mentioned any of the hundreds of roads having gross operating revenues of less than $1,000,000. Most of these roads have not been able properly to maintain themselves and none of them have been able to add facilities which the increasing commerce of the country requires. It can be safely said that unless these roads, and many others like them, can better their condition they will remain for an indefinite time, incapable of rendering efficient service, and scores of them must be completely abandoned.

I will take up in my next article the plans that have been suggested for brining about an improvement in this intolerable condition. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Driver Who Ran Down Laborers Over Manhole Is Fined $51 in Court

Arraigned in police court Tuesday as the driver of the machine which injured two employees of the Georgia Railway & Power company July 16, Nick Vismor, of 70 East Ellis street, drew a fine of $51.

E. Cannon, of 38 Fortress avenue, and T. McKinney, of College Park, who were hurt by Vismor's car, stated they were standing by an open manhole in Alabama street, between Pryor and Whitehall streets, protected by a red flag at the time of the accident.

The purpose of the board is to launch the "Gold Cross" movement in the Methodist church. The meeting today will be presided over by Bishop Warren Agin Canfield, and plans for the Gold Cross will be perfected.

"The order of the Gold Cross," said Rev. C. C. Jarrell, secretary, "will be the Red Cross of the nation. The purpose of founding the order is to supplement the work being done in hospitals, especially the charity work. The funds obtained will not be used to endow institutions already established, but will be used to defray current expenses."

"There will be different classes of membership: junior, student and adult. The order of 'Knight of the Gold Cross' will be conferred upon subscribers making contributions of $10,000 or more to the fund. There will be no limit to the subscriptions."

"It is the desire of the committee launching the 'movement to enroll every Methodist in the church in the order," said Dr. Jarrell. "We are now trying to get a non-sectarian work in our hospitals, and we are not going to limit membership in the Gold Cross to members of the Methodist church alone. Everyone who wishes to become a member of the organization, regardless of religion or creed, will be accepted in the order."

Dr. Jarrell said that members of the Gold Cross in the North Georgia conference would raise not less than $7,000 annually and that southern Methodists would raise between $400,000 and $500,000 for the movement by the next meeting of the general conference in 1926.

AUTO DEALERS TO HOLD OUTING

From the number of reservations already made with the executive secretary of the Atlanta Automobile association, indications are that the annual summer outing of the association, Thursday at Brookhaven Country club, will surpass in attendance the occasion last year, when practically every member was represented at the outing.

Quite a large number of the dealers have already purchased tickets, not only for themselves, but for many of their employees. The outing is open to the wives and lady friends of the members and their employees. The principal event of the celebration will be the dinner to be served at 7:30 o'clock, p. m., at the clubhouse, accompanied by an entertainment and followed by dancing. This is in charge of Lou Hicks, who has promised a number of "stunts" to enliven the occasion.

Presentation of Trophies.
During the dinner, the splendid silver trophy, donated by the Automobile Credit Sales company to the association, to be awarded to the best individual player as champion of the association for this season, will be presented, as well as another beautiful trophy, donated by the Southern Automobile Dealer to the team making the best score in the competitive team golf match.

The individual match is scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock, a. m., and to wind up at 12:30 o'clock, while the team match will open at 1 o'clock, p. m., and last probably through the afternoon. Practically every golfer in the association of any consequence has indicated his intention of getting into either one or the other of these contests. At 12:30 o'clock a buffet luncheon ("Dutch treat") will be served to those who participate in the golf matches.

Brookhaven Country club grounds and clubhouse will be open to the entire golfing community, to the members and families and friends, and those not desiring to engage in golf can use the tennis courts, bathe in the lake, or enjoy the spacious grounds. As this is the only day in the year set aside by the association for a general summer outing, the association has voted to close the places of business of its members at noon, so that all employees can be given an opportunity to attend.

Fred Tedder, chairman of the committee to secure prizes for both golf contests, in addition to securing two trophies referred to, has obtained a large number of other prizes, consisting of several valuable auto accessories, donated by the accessory members of the association. All of these, together with the silver trophies, will be on display at the clubhouse at Brookhaven, Wednesday evening and all day Thursday.

Tickets are $2.50 for men and $1.50 for ladies.

BARBERS' BAND GIVES CONCERT TONIGHT
A concert will be given by Barber's band at Madrox park tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Roper Wins Decision Over Walker in Fine Battle

H. Sullivan Stops Murphy In Third Round and Dale Defeats Battling Benson

Sammy Duplex Pulls Off Good Diving Act After Making Nice Showing Against Davis at the Start.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Captain Bob Roper would like nothing better in the world, he says, than to settle down here where hospitality is something that is really encountered and not confined solely to chambers of commerce bulletins.

To win himself a home in Atlanta as lasting as the Rock of Gibraltar, Captain Bob has but to keep fighting as he did last night at Spiller's bowl when he defeated Hugh Walker, one of the greatest 10-round battles ever staged in Atlanta.

It was Roper's first appearance in a local arena. The finest crowd that has witnessed a legion-promoted match in months now hopes sincerely that it will not be his last, for followers of the pastime believe that in Roper they have found a ring entertainer who is entirely worth while.

Captain Bob had to be good last night, because he was pitted against a batter as rugged as they make 'em and who had the courage of a lion to mix with his toughness. Hugh Walker impressed the critics with the fact that he has not wasted his time since entering the sport. His stuff was enough to make Roper step at a mighty fast clip and a show that will long be remembered was the result.

Walker has a very dangerous left. The right was robbed of much of its effectiveness, simply because Roper was smart enough to work out a defense for it early in the encounter, but Walker pumped his left into Captain Bob's countenance more than once and some points were rolled his way in this fashion. When Walker did connect with his right, Roper was unable to conceal the secret. They hurt.

Fight Not One-Sided.

This correspondent's tally of rounds shows that Roper was practically every round as the "box score" of blows doesn't mean by any means that the battle was one-sided. The margin Captain Bob enjoyed in many of the sessions was no greater than a shade, which made the fight extremely interesting from the start.

There were few frames that were overwhelmingly in favor of the man who received Referee Nick Miller's decision. Hugh looked bad against a vicious attack, mixed with splendid boxing, that Captain Bob trotted out in the third, but even then the pugilist from Missouri came back strong, and was declining to give an inch at the bell.

It was during this round that Walker sustained an injury that continued to worry him for the remainder of the struggle. The fighters had just come out of a clinch when Hugh was caught off guard. Before he could complete any damage himself, his mouth was badly cut and he looked weak as he went to the corner for the one-minute rest period.

The fast pace set in the third appeared to affect both fighters, and it seemed by mutual consent they decided to let the things easily in the fourth and the quietest round of the evening ensued. The rest accomplished worlds of good for Walker as he rushed out of his corner to start the fifth and launched an offensive that was maintained for the entire session.

He lashed Roper about the ring with hard drives to the stomach, and broke the monotony of his attack by whipping over a right or bringing up a left. This attack of Walker's cut Roper's lead, and Roper's stock went up a lot.

The chances are that Walker would have occupied more of the referee's thoughts when the time came for rendering the verdict than his left eye been cut in the sixth. This injury came at an inopportune moment, as he had proved in the previous round that he was ready to sail at top speed for the rest of the fight.

Walker's attack was so effective before the end of the frame, and Roper added more points to his tally sheet.

Walker in Bad Way.

Roper had Walker in a bad way at the start of the seventh and had just one of the uppers he started found the range, the fight probably would have ended at that point. He finally got over the rough spots in the round and rallied sharply in the last minute. He was unable to cut down much of the lead Roper had piled up and lost the round, but the crowd cheered his comeback.

Walker took the eighth by a display of aggressiveness that would have given him a much wider margin had not Roper countered so beautifully. Hugh possibly sensed that he was being outpointed, and determined to win or lose in this round. He started by coming into Roper, swinging both arms and landing often. The attack caught Captain Bob by surprise, but after he succeeded in collecting his wits, he matched Hugh's work with some just as good. He caught Walker with a left jab as the latter came swaying in and Hugh's right eye was blown. The rest of the fight was Roper's all the way, although Walker made a great showing in the tenth.

Sammy Duplex, after starting out nicely against Soldier Lewis in the sixth round, executed a crude dive in the fifth and took the count. Duplex, it was rumored around the ring, was going through his first professional engagement. It must have been a rough one, as he learned yet how to pick out a soft spot without letting the dear public in on the secret. He won the opening round, but after taking a minute of fighting, the latter taking a short count, but from that time on the soldier won every round. Duplex's right eye was cut in the second and he tired his third. The finisher was a tap to the stomach. Duplex selected the safest place he could find and pulled the cover over his head.

Sullivan Wins.

Hollis Sullivan, Professor Evans' great little batter, stopped Frankie Murphy, Jr. in three rounds, the latter not being able to answer for the first round. Sullivan was outwitted in the second round, but he succeeded in cutting the opposition down to his size. Sullivan boxed beautifully in the first round, but cut Murphy's mouth with a left jab. In the second round, he shifted his attack to Murphy's stomach and scored many points with the left. A right to the heart knocked Murphy down, but he came back in the third. The count had reached four when the gong sounded and Murphy was dragged to his corner by his handlers. Frantic efforts were made to bring him round, but he was unable to rise. In the fourth round, it was announced by Murphy's seconds that their entry could not continue.

Billy Dale defeated Battling Benson in the 10-round semi-final. Neither of the boys did any boxing, but made up for this in hard fighting. The first three rounds were even, Benson saving himself in each frame by late minute rallies. Then Dale stepped off to a lead in the fourth, having Benson hanging on. Benson evened the count by winning the fifth and might have shaded the sixth, but Dale won the last two rounds in easy fashion and deserved the referee's decision.

In a four-round added attraction between Flyweights, Kibane was on points over Jackie Wells, this battle giving the fans much entertainment.

DUNDEE AND CRIQUI NEXT

New York, July 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Hardly had the smoke of the Tender-Leonard lightweight battle cleared today when the fans began focusing their attention upon the second world's championship ring contest of the week, the match Thursday night at the Polo Grounds between Eugene Criqui, French holder of the featherweight title, and Johnny Dundee, New York Italian.

Criqui will risk against Dundee, a crown he has won less than two months. The Frenchman toppled the veteran Johnny Kilbane from the 126-pound throne with a sixth round knockout at the Polo Grounds on June 2.

Against Dundee, a fast, clever boxer, Criqui will be given a more severe test, experts believe, than when he fought Kilbane. The New Yorker is a good ring general and possesses plenty of stamina, but his punching power is open question.

Dundee has done much fighting in lightweight ranks, where he won recognition as "junior lightweight" champion until he lost it recently to a decision to Jack Berners. He fought a 20-round draw with Kilbane for the featherweight crown in 1913, but he was unable to get a return match.

Kilbane's refusal to meet Dundee resulted last year in the champion's suspension by the New York state athletic commission, which gave title recognition to Dundee after he defeated Danny Frush, an Englishman. Kilbane was reinstated when he signed to meet Criqui with the understanding that the winner would box Dundee.

How To Buy Good Printing And Save

SOME BUYERS OF
Sprinting lose money in overlooking the fact that printing is a product which is seasonable in somewhat the same sense as watermelons.

Today you purchase a ripe, juicy "Tom Watson" for half a dollar. Six months from now you can't buy one for a million.

You'll find it somewhat the same in printing. During these summer months we have plenty of paper and labor, and more time than we'll have later on. NOW the price of good printing is low.

Those who wait till fall will find the price higher. Rivers carrying logs for paper mills freeze. Paper markets rise. Labor more than likely becomes dearer. And the price of good printing goes up.

NOW is when good printing, like the melon, is at its lowest price. Today you can save by ordering your Year Book or Catalog early. Call Byrd—Main 1270—Atlanta's good printing headquarters.

ADDITIONAL BILL GOES TO SPECIAL BODY

Senator Stephen Pace, of the 13th district, appeared before the house committee on general judiciary, number one, on Tuesday night, and explained his bill to provide a state auditing department, which has already passed the senate by a vote of 37 to 1.

After extended debate on the bill, and the offering of amendments by Representative Holden, of Clarke, the Pace measure and the substitute were both referred to a sub-committee, which announced that it would meet at 9:30 this morning in the hall of representatives. The sub-committee is composed of Representatives Hyman, Holden, Holton, Steele, Warren and Napier, with Senator Pace.

The bill, as passed by the senate, provides for a state auditor to be appointed by the budget commission, with a salary of $5,000 per year, an assistant auditor at $4,000, a clerk at $2,000 and such other clerical help as may be needed at salaries not to exceed a total of $15,000.

Duties of Auditor.
The auditing department would be required to make at least one report per year of each department, institution or official of the state. The auditor is directed, in the bill, to advise the next session of the legislature the best method by which all departments of the state's activities may be placed on a uniform accounting system, and also as the advisability of the creation of a central purchasing agent for all state supplies.

Senator Pace, in discussing his bill stated that funds of the state were drawn out of the treasury on blank warrants, under the general heading of "Maintenance," and that there was absolutely no check on the manner in which these funds are expended. He also repeated his charges, made previously in the senate, that there were officials of the state who kept funds of the state deposited in their private accounts. He said he did not believe these officials did so with any intent to defraud the state, and said while he could prove it in one case, he was not going to do so, because it would involve the loss of his job to a mighty good man.

Approves Gas Rebate Plan.
The committee approved the bill of Representative Steele, of DeKalb, which forbids the giving of rebates by wholesale dealers in gasoline, oils, etc. The bill to define the crime of arson and provide punishment therefor, of Camp, of Campbell, and Hesse, of DeKalb, was also favorably reported. A bill by Guess, of DeKalb, to increase the salary of the assistant insurance clerk in the office of the comptroller general was also approved.

A number of engineers had been invited to appear before the committee to explain a bill which would have created a state board of examiners for engineers and surveyors, but objections of several members of the committee prevented any full explanation of this bill or discussion. It was briefly shown that it would not call upon the state treasury for any appropriations, but that the board would be self-supporting by the examination of this bill or discussion. It was referred to a sub-committee composed of Representatives Christopher, Harrell, Aubrey, Woodruff and Wimberly, of Laurens.

Explains Land Bank Bills.
R. H. Welch, of Columbia, S. C., attorney for the federal land bank of that city, spoke on behalf of several bills designed to provide for the registration of various forms of securities for loans on realty, which are not now so protected under the Georgia law. Mr. Welch explained that the object of these bills was to remove unnecessary handicaps which Georgia farmers now labored under in complying with the requirements of his bank when making loans on Georgia farms. The bills in question were not before the committee for action, and Mr. Welch was heard because he had come specially from Columbia for that purpose. The committee will take up these bills at its next session.

11 Goose Creek Men Are Fined For Floggings

Houston, Texas, July 24.—Eleven Goose Creek men appeared before Criminal District Judge C. W. Robinson today and pleaded guilty to sixteen charges growing out of masked floggings which have occurred in official field district in the last two years. Dismissals were entered in twenty-four other cases growing out of the flogging against Goose Creek men.

The pleas of guilty and dismissal constitute a complete settlement of the indictments returned since the first of the year by the grand jury as the result of investigations of floggings in the Goose Creek community. Judge Robinson fixed the fine in each case at $100 and costs, the defendants indicted on felony charges being allowed to plead guilty to misdemeanor offenses. The whipping of R. A. Armand and Mrs. Margaret Harrison set under way the grand jury inquiry which has covered a period of six months and resulted in the return of more than forty indictments.

PLANS PROGRESSING FOR JUNIOR REPUBLIC

The Juvenile Protective association is rapidly completing plans for building and equipping the Junior Republic of the South, a self-governing village for wayward boys and girls, it is announced by Rev. Crawford Jackson, general secretary of the association. During the remaining of the summer, an intensive effort will be made to collect funds with which to complete purchase of 103 acres in Campbell county 10 miles from Atlanta, on which it is planned to erect school buildings and shops and general farm equipment. Approximately $100,000 is needed, Mr. Jackson says.

ROYAL PROCESSION ENDS IN ACCIDENT

Liverpool, July 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—One of the carriages in a procession escorting the Duke and Duchess of York here today struck part of a large crowd of people gathered outside the royal infirmary, running down about 20 women and children.

Thirteen persons were taken away in the ambulances including seven children who were the chief sufferers. There were several broken limbs among the children, all of whom were detained in the hospital.

The carriage which caused the injuries was the second in the procession, coming next to the duke's and carried the high sheriff of Lancashire and the Earl of Derby. The horses became frightened by the loud cheering and plunged into the crowd.

SHOTS ARE FIRED AT U. S. STEAMER

Ichang Hupeh Province, China, July 24.—(By The Associated Press.) The Monocacy, according to the report, returned the fire, doing considerable damage.

Officers Called To Keep Order At Garrett Trial

Cumberland Courthouse, Va., July 24.—(By The Associated Press.)—An announcement from the office of Governor Trinkle in Richmond today that a number of special police would be sent to insure order during the trial of Robert O. and Larkin C. Garrett, charged with the killing of the Rev. Edward Sylvester Pierce, Baptist minister, was received here today with a general feeling of relief. While few residents have openly expressed a fear of violence, all were agreed that the presence of the police would create an atmosphere of security for all and assure peace both in the court and outside. It was understood tonight that the police would be sworn in as special deputy sheriffs with full power to act as such in this country.

This case, in which Robert O. Garrett, clerk of court, and his brother, Larkin C. Garrett, commissioner in charge, business men of high standing in the community, both stand indicted for first degree murder in connection with the slaying of the Rev. E. S. Pierce, Baptist minister, in a shooting affray at the latter's home last June 5, allegedly the culmination of a political feud extending over a number of years, has divided Cumberland county into two hostile camps and has engendered a partisan feeling that has spread in many directions over the state.

JUDGE RESERVES DECISION IN FIGHT FOR KLAN PAPERS

New York, July 24.—Charges that documents belonging to the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., had been "wrongfully and unlawfully" bought for $3,000 by a representative of Hearst's International Magazine, were made and denied in federal court today during argument in the Klan's suit to have the magazine enjoined from publishing them. Judge Winslow reserved decision. Counsel for the Klan said that the papers were taken from Klan offices, Atlanta, Ga., to be used to discredit the society.

Martin W. Littleton, for the magazine, said the articles, written by Norman Hapgood, were based on material secured from the department of justice, which has been investigating the Klan.

$3,500,000 Is Paid For Common Stock Of Willys-Overland
Buffalo, N. Y., July 24.—Interests said to include Willys Overland distributors and represented by Thomas H. Tracy, today became owners of 730,800 shares of Willys-Overland common stock, purchased for $3,500,000 when their bid for that amount was accepted by Federal Judge John E. Knox in the suit in equity ownership of the Willys holding corporation of Toledo, Ohio.

The Tracy bid was said to have been favored because of certain protective guarantees to 6,000 Willys holding corporation stockholders, who hold Willys-Overland stock valued at $15,000,000. The Tracy interests offered to stand responsible for liabilities of the Willys Holding corporation up to $500,000.

SCHWAB DEFENDS CHARLES MORSE

Washington, July 24.—One of a number of notables summoned at one time or another by the defense, Charles M. Schwab, went on the witness stand today to testify for Charles W. Morse and others charged with conspiracy in connection with wartime shipbuilding operations.

Mr. Schwab, describing himself as a manufacturer and an "engineer in human endeavor," was a jovial witness, and more than during his testimony the strict decorum of the courtroom was broken by laughter at some of his expressions.

This was particularly true when he pointed some good-natured quips in the direction of the three sons of Mr. Morse, who are on trial with him.

"I told Charles W. Morse," said the witness, describing his efforts while head bureau of emergency fleet corporation to speed up shipbuilding, "that relatives were no good in business."

"Most rich men's sons," said Mr. Schwab, "won't work like I want people to work for me."

The witness said the Morse shipyards never had intentionally delayed government ships, that the plants were in excellent condition and that he at one time had urged a government loan of $750,000 to Morse. No risk, he said, should have been taken in the way of getting ships when they were vitally needed.

When he left the fleet corporation, he testified, he thanked the Morses, and other shipbuilders, for their co-operation in furthering America's war aims.

Woman To Head Home Economics U. S. Department

Washington, July 24.—Dr. Louise Stanley, a native of Nashville, Tenn., and now dean of home economics at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., has been selected by Secretary Wallace to head the newly established bureau of home economics of the department of agriculture. She will assume her duties September 1.

In announcing the appointment today, Assistant Secretary Pugsley said:

"The nation is to be congratulated in securing Dr. Stanley to head the bureau of home economics. There is no more important work than that devoted especially to the homes of the country."

Miss Stanley was reared on a farm, graduated from the University of Chicago in 1902, received a master of arts degree at Columbia in 1907 and a doctor of philosophy degree at Yale in 1911. She has filled various positions at the University of Missouri and during a year's leave of absence made a special study of home economics methods in the south and Pacific states as a special agent for the federal board of vocational education. She is chairman of the legislative committee of the American Home Economics association, and was a delegate to the international conference of home economics, teaching at Ghent, Belgium, in 1913.

AD MEN TO SPEND $600,000 IN "TRUTH IN ADVERTISING"

Chicago, July 24.—More than $600,000 will be appropriated to further the "truth in advertising" campaign of the Associated Advertising clubs of the world according to action taken by the executive council which met here yesterday. Decision was made to hold the 1924 convention in London in July, a specially chartered ship to convey the 1,000 members expected to attend.

The council voted to appropriate $121,000 toward the fund, the remainder to be subscribed by forty "better business" bureaus throughout the country.

Postmaster General Harry S. New was commended in a resolution for the activities of his department in helping to discover the identity of fraudulent advertisers. Reduction of postage rates on second-class matter was also favored.

Carl Hunt, New York, was reappointed general manager.

BOULEVARD SIDING IS ISSUE IN FIGHT

Protesting that the proposed expansion of the loading track facilities of the Southern railway at Boulevard and Tenth street would cause $500,000 decline in value of Boulevard park real estate, approximately 75 citizens of that section appeared before the zoning appeal board Tuesday afternoon and expressed opposition to the contemplated trackage improvement.

E. Stevens, president of the Boulevard Civic League, headed the delegation, which included many women. N. C. Couch, chief clerk to the vice president of the Southern railway, represented the road.

Although the citizens were permitted to express themselves Tuesday, formal hearing will not be held until the petition of the railroad for permission to lay the additional track has been advertised for a period of ten days.

Plans for the Southern railway call for approximately 700 feet of siding alongside of the belt line, between the Boulevard crossing and the Piedmont Park bridge.

Is Residence Section.
Boulevard park citizens recently complained to C. J. Bowen, city building inspector, when the railroad began grading for the track, the complaint being based on the fact that the site was in a residential zone. The road then filed its appeal with the zoning commission.

In presenting the petition of the Southern railway, N. C. Couch said that "the Southern railway finds itself in an embarrassing position in that its peculiar responsibilities under the law and under the power of the public service regulating bodies are such as to require that the present inadequate facilities at Boulevard and Tenth street be made adequate on the one hand, while we run counter to the requirements of the zoning ordinance on the other hand, and thus find ourselves hemmed in and in a position forced to seek refuge in the lesser of the two evils with which we are confronted."

Citizens estimated that each of the longest in Boulevard park would sustain a $1,000 depreciation in value. It was pointed out that the streets of the community would be continually filled with trucks and drays hauling material from the siding.

Needed for High School.
According to Mr. Couch, the Southern railway had forty-two carloads of material Tuesday which should have been placed at Boulevard and Tenth street, and which had to be sent elsewhere owing to the inadequacy of facilities at that point.

He reminded the board that very shortly trainloads of material will be ready for delivery at the site of the new boys' high school, within two blocks of the proposed siding, and that the present siding is too short. To haul the building material for the school by truck from the downtown tracks would entail an exorbitant expense, he said.

Social Notes
From Anniston.

Anniston, Ala., July 24.—(Special) Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Mooney, formerly of Anniston, but now of Los Angeles, have arrived in the city by motor for a visit to relatives and friends, having made the entire trip from the California city in 13 days. The motor party visited the Grand Canyon and other points of interest while en route to Anniston.

Miss Mattie Ledbetter, returned missionary from China, accompanied by a little Chinese girl whom she has adopted, is in Anniston visiting relatives and friends. Miss Ledbetter formerly lived in Anniston before going to the foreign field.

Members of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity among the units at Camp McClellan entertained with a dance Monday evening at the Anniston Country club. Several local people and out of town guests were present by invitation of the fraternity men.

Prominent Atlantans in West

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dorsey, of Atlanta, who are traveling in the west. The photograph was made against the remains of a 30-foot snowbank in Paradise Valley, Rainer National Park, Washington. Mrs. Dorsey is a cousin of T. H. Martin, who is general manager of Rainer Park. Mr. Martin was formerly a resident of Atlanta.

Dr. and Mrs. Rawiszer
Give Pretty Dinner.

Miss Vivian Young Barker and Madison L. Clifton, Jr., whose marriage will take place August 4, were guests of honor at a dinner given by Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Rawiszer at their home on East avenue. A handsome flat lace cloth overlaid the table, which was decorated with pink and white garden flowers.

Mrs. Rawiszer's gown was of white georgette.

Miss Barker wore a lovely dress of cinnamon-colored georgette.

Ten guests were present.

Mrs. Troup Howard
Is Bridge Hostess
At Piedmont Club

One of the loveliest affairs on Tuesday's social calendar was the luncheon at which Mrs. Troup Howard, of Savannah, was hostess at the Piedmont Driving club.

The handsomely appointed luncheon table was placed on the east veranda of the club overlooking the swimming pool. A low Chinese bowl filled with garden flowers in pastel shades graced the center.

After luncheon the guests played bridge.

Mrs. Howard's guests included: Mrs. Robert Smythe, Mrs. Ulrich Atkinson, Mrs. Inman Sanders, Mrs. Dudley Cowles, Mrs. James T. Williams, Mrs. E. R. Gundy, Mrs. Stacey Ernest Hill, Mrs. W. V. Banks, Mrs. Wickliffe Goldsmith and Mrs. Frank Freeman.

Mrs. John Oliver
Is Bridge Hostess.

Mrs. John Oliver entertained at a charming afternoon at the East Lake club, honoring her guest, Miss Harriet Adams, of Orange, N. J. The bridge tables were placed on the terrace overlooking the lake. The prizes were imported perfume and boxes of fine stationery. The guest of honor was presented with a blue quill pen.

Mrs. Oliver was wearing a wide brimmed lace hat.

Miss Adams' gown was of jade georgette. Her hat was of black Milan and malines.

Tea followed the bridge game. Covers were placed for thirty guests.

Travis Ramey
Will Lecture.

Travis Milton Ramey, character analyst and exponent of the laws of matrimonial adaptation, will speak in the assembly room of the Carnegie library, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when he will deliver a lecture on "How to Prevent Divorce by Removing the Cause—a Scientific Solution." Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock, Mr. Ramey will deliver the same lecture at the same place before the Vocational-Success club, which will be followed by character readings of volunteers in which he will point out their matrimonial adaptations.

The public is invited, especially social workers, humanitarians and those interested in happier and more stable homes and the insurance of better progeny.

Capital City Club Is Scene Of Brilliant Dinner-Dance

The regular Tuesday evening dinner-dance at the Capital City club assembled many guests on the roof. Strings of lights, many beautiful flowers, alluring music and a moon flooding the scene with silver light made this one of the notable social events of the week.

The tables placed along the outer edge of the dancing floor were decorated with shaded lights and baskets filled with garden flowers.

Among those dining together were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Flynt, Mr. and Mrs. Will L. Mathers and Captain T. C. Locks.

of Fort Leavenworth, who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Roddey.

Mr. and Mrs. George Orndall entertained a group in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ulric Atkinson, of Chicago, Ill.

Dr. B. McH. Cline had as his guests for dinner Miss Mary Louise Brown and Dr. M. C. Crawford.

Among others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Patterson and their guests, Miss Mary Campbell Patterson, of Wilmore, Kentucky, and Miss Russell Guerrant, of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. John Baldwin, Jr., and W. J. Bialock.

BEAUTY CHATS

WHEN YOU'RE CONVALESCING.

A chat some time ago about things to improve one's good looks while convalescing from illness, has brought me so many questions that I think I may repeat some of these suggestions today.

In the first place, you must consider the convalescence a golden period in which to do all the things you never had time for before. There are books you've been wanting to read, letters you've meant to write, but never "gotten around to," fine sewing you've always intended doing—to be done when you're stronger. And meantime, every day, there are little beauty services to yourself which you've no excuse for evading, and which you need all the more now that illness has pulled you down so. They are not hard, these beauty services.

If it's been fever, you must have your hair cut or it will come out—if a bad fever, it may have to be shaved. But then boudoir caps must hide your head anyway, and you've weeks of privacy while the hair grows into a somewhat becoming length. But every day you can rub your scalp with hair tonic, or have it rubbed if you are still too weak.

Every day, with a basin of hot water by your bed, you can soak thick face cloths, hold them over your skin (ten minutes of this) then rub the face and front of the neck with cold cream, wiping off what is left after the massage, and using toilet vinegar as astringent if you can't have a bit of ice wrapped in a little muslin. This is wonderfully rejuvenating to the skin. If there are wrinkles, use flesh-building cream, otherwise, cleansin cream. Elbows and hands can be treated, too, and the nails rubbed daily with cream or oil.

Hands always grow younger after illness, did you know that? So do the feet, because they rest. If possible, have your feet pedicured during this rest period.

Proud Mother—Do not try to use peroxide on your little girl's hair. Children's light hair often darkens as they grow older, and it is more becoming.

Take beauty treatments as you recuperate.

many sun baths as possible. Either treatment will have a tendency to bleach.

John T. P.—Perspiring feet are usually all too dry and need oil. Massage them every night with olive oil, after the feet have been thoroughly washed in a basin of hot water to which a tablespoon of boric acid has been added. Change your shoes and stockings every day.

Lovely Bridge Party Is Given.

A lovely compliment to Miss Vivian Young Barker and Madison L. Clifton, whose marriage will occur August 4, was the bridge party at which Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. McGarity entertained Tuesday evening.

The living and dining rooms were decorated with pink and white flowers and wedding bells. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in every detail, the center of the dining table containing a large pink and white suit case which held favors for the guests.

Mrs. McGarity was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Jesse Broom and Mrs. Jesse McGarity. Miss Alice Broom and Miss Margery de Leon served the guests at the individual tables.

Mrs. Edmund McGarity wore yellow chiffon lace trimmed. Miss Barker wore a dinner gown of flame-colored lace over satin. Miss Margery de Leon wore cream lace over pink satin.

The guests were Miss Barker, Miss Clarice Stewart, Miss Jennie O'Farrell, Miss Margery de Leon, Miss Alice Broom, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stanford, Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Veal, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Broom, Mrs. Jesse McGarity, Madison L. Clifton, Virgil Chew, Elkin Vogt, Frank Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. McGarity.

Mrs. Harper Is Hostess.

An informal bridge-luncheon given at the Piedmont Driving club Tuesday was that of Mrs. Charles Harper, who entertained in compliment to Miss Gladys Schofield, of Macon, who is the guest of Mrs. W. E. Yankey.

A group of intimate friends of the hostess were invited to meet Miss Schofield.

The Veterans' bureau presented a miscellaneous program to the "Boys" at Hospital No. 48 Tuesday evening. Captain F. E. Leister, Misses Lilian Mann, Rebbe Lowe, Martha McCall, Helen Bennett, Gipsy Gill, Elise Cape, Mrs. Gertrude Butts and Phillip Lazenby gave the program.

At the close a community "sing" was led by Captain F. E. Leister after which the "boys" favorite ice cream was served to them.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Macon Visitor Is Honored.

A beautiful social event of Tuesday was the tea given by Mrs. W. E. Yankey at the Atlanta Woman's club in compliment to her guest, Miss Gladys Schofield, of Macon.

The spacious reception rooms were decorated with stately palms and summer flowers. The daintily appointed tea table was graced by a silver basket filled with pink gladioli encircled by silver candelabra holding pink and white tapers and alternating with bouquets of mints.

Receiving with Mrs. Yankey and Miss Schofield were: Mrs. Harry Harmon, Jr., Mrs. Carl Ramspeck, Mrs. John Owen Donaldson and Mrs. Omar Elder.

Mrs. Yankey was crowned in yellow crepe trimmed with cream lace. Her hat was a model of yellow straw.

Miss Schofield wore a gown of white pleated crepe trimmed with lace and her hat was of lavender straw.

Mrs. Elder was crowned in hyacinth blue chiffon, and her hat of blue straw was trimmed with blue flowers.

Mrs. Ramspeck wore a gown of white georgette with hat to match.

Mrs. Harmon's costume was of blue chiffon, with hat to match.

Mrs. Donaldson wore a gown of gray chiffon and her hat was of black straw.

Miss Elizabeth Hawkins and Mrs. Elwyn Tomlinson served punch.

Mrs. W. R. Freeman entertained at a rook party Tuesday afternoon, in honor of her niece, Miss Deedie Freeman, of Columbus, Ga. The guests included Misses Dorothy Burk, Sadie Moon, Sarah Candler, Margaret Crouch, Elizabeth Doyle, Louise Casey, Louise Hart, Nell Johnson, Deedie Kimborough, Alice Steward, Mrs. George Freeman, Sr., and Mrs. George Freeman, Jr.

It's Legal to Laugh When Someone Shies Brick at Constable

Chicago, July 24.—It isn't nice, but it's legally permissible to laugh when someone shies a brick at the village constable.

Cases appealed from rural justices Joseph B. David Tuesday, and Charles Betke, of Dalton, said this was the sole offense for which he was fined $10 and costs in 1920.

The hurler of the Irish confetti escaped and when the painting constable returned, he found Betke leaning over the town water plug in uncontrollable paroxysms of mirth, and arrested him.

"I've been laughing ever since," Betke admitted.

The decision was reversed.

Baking Teams Vie To Win Honors For Atlanta Fair

Bread baking teams representing Clarke, Jasper, Morgan, Newton and Walton counties, will compete at the A. and M. school, at Monroe, July 24-25 for the selection of a team to represent the district in the South-eastern Fair, which will be held in Atlanta.

The contests are scheduled to be held during the month under the supervision of Miss Etta Colclough, state agent for home demonstration work, and Miss Lela Edwards, district agent. Contests have already been held in Americus, Brunswick and Hawkinsville.

Three girls are on each team and, while contesting on the bread baking tours, team members have been entertained by members of women's clubs and Kiwanis clubs, and many entertainments and excursions have been planned for the visiting teams.

$50,000 SUIT FILED BY ACCIDENT VICTIM

Miss Lela McDowell filed suit in Fulton superior court Tuesday asking $50,000 damages against the Georgia Railway and Power company, for alleged injuries received when she was thrown from one of the company's street cars. The suit asserted that on July 3, the plaintiff was leaving a street car at the corner of Peachtree and Pine streets, and that as she stepped from the door the car moved, throwing her to the pavement and inflicting permanent injuries.

The petition also alleged that she remained in the Atlanta hospital for a week in an unconscious condition, and has been unable to walk or stand since the alleged accident.

Miss McDowell is represented by Attorneys Coburn and Wilson.

SIMS TO ACT THURSDAY IN REINSTATEMENT CASE

Mayor Sims Tuesday declared that he probably would take no action until some time Thursday, on the resolution passed by council Monday reinstating the seven sanitary inspectors dropped when the June finance sheet was passed.

A similar resolution adopted by council at its last regular meeting was vetoed by Mayor Sims, but council took no action on this veto at its regular meeting Monday.

The resolution reinstating the men which was passed Monday was introduced by Councilman Pennington.

Kitchen Aids for Hot Weather

The modern housekeeper is putting her home on a business basis that would have been utterly beyond the grasp of her grandmother. Her orderly kitchen-office, equipped with electrical housekeeping aids, proves that she has discovered that electrical servants make work lighter and cooler during the heated season.

She summons an Electric Toaster that makes delicious, crisp toast in a jiffy at the table.

An electric percolator takes coffee-making out of kitchen and enables the housewife to prepare the remainder of the breakfast while the coffee percolates without any attention whatever.

There are other electrical servants in our Salesroom that will make a summer season a more pleasant one. Let us show them to you.

Miss Forbes, Talented Atlantan, Returns Home From California

Miss Nell Tillou Forbes, charming Atlanta girl, who is visiting relatives in Atlanta after having spent the past year in California.

Miss Nell Tillou Forbes, an Atlanta girl, who is well-known in the south and east, as an interpretative character reader, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Walter Forbes, and her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Cannon Forbes, at 55 Hurt street. She has but recently returned from California, where she has been on the lecture platform for the past year, having given up a trip to Japan to accept a position on the Alcohol Education association, of which Richmond Pearson Hobson is president. Her principal work was the organization of institutes of the literature for the dissemination of the literature the association produced, and to lecture on the effects of alcohol on the human system.

The work of the association is to make prohibition effective, by spreading as it has never been spread before, the truth about what alcohol does to humanity. Miss Forbes believes that education must supplant the law, and

"Faith Healed" Cripple Throws Crutches Away

One hundred and eighteen people professed conversion at the Richey evangelistic meeting in the Auditorium Tuesday evening. More than a score sought healing for bodily ailments, and in many instances professed marked improvement.

One case was that of John Orr, of 101 Venable street, who is a familiar figure on the streets of Atlanta as the driver of a diminutive wagon drawn by a pair of goats. Orr made his way slowly to the stage, leaning heavily on a pair of crutches. The evangelist anointed him with oil and prayed for him. He straightened up, threw his crutches off the stage and walked back to his seat on the main floor in a sprightly manner.

Rev. Raymond T. Richey, who is conducting the series of meetings, addressed a crowd which comfortably filled the Auditorium. There seemed to be an unusual air of interest and expectancy. After a brief address concerned mostly with the subject of happiness, and devoid of emotional appeal, the evangelist gave the invitation for those seeking a change in

Mrs. Jacob Patterson's Guests Are Entertained at Dinner

A charming compliment to Miss Barry Campbell Patterson, of Wilmore, Ky., and Miss Russel Guerrant, of Los Angeles, Cal., who arrived Tuesday to be the guests of Mrs. Jacob Patterson, at her home on West Peachtree street, was the dinner party at which their hostess entertained Tuesday evening.

The beautifully appointed table had a handsome cover of imported lace. Five silver vases, filled with a variety of garden flowers, formed the decorations, the large central vase being surrounded by four smaller ones. Tapers in a lovely shade of pale green burned in silver holders, and the mints were also in green.

Covers were placed for fourteen guests.

Mrs. Patterson received her guests wearing a summer gown of white crepe.

BILL TO SPLIT UP JUDICIAL DISTRICT VOTED FAVORABLY

By unanimous vote, house committee No. 1 on general judiciary Tuesday afternoon approved the bill to create a new judicial circuit, by dividing the present western circuit into two circuits.

A large delegation of members of the bar from the present western circuit was present and it was pointed out by speakers that the circuit as at present constituted serves a population considerably more than double that of the average Georgia circuit. Reports from the clerk of the court showed that the court is at least five years behind in its docket, with the accumulation of cases fast growing.

The circuit at present is composed of seven counties, Clarke, Walton, Oconee, Gwinnett, Barrow, Jackson and Banks. It is proposed to form a new circuit to be known as the Piedmont circuit out of the counties of Gwinnett, Barrow, Jackson and Banks, and leave the remaining three to form the new western circuit.

Her Friend's Husband

CHAPTER XXXIII

Coward's Tragedy.

"But what happened then?" demanded Gloria, tremendously interested in Mimi's story. "Where is your husband—how did you tell your mother—what did she say?"

"He isn't my husband any more," replied Mimi, slowly. "We got back to the house that night, and I went straight to bed, but the man walked up and down all night in the garden, thinking things out. I was trying to think them out, too, only I didn't seem to get anywhere, somehow. I began to be afraid of mother again. She'd always had me right under her thumb, you see—I'd never done anything without her consent."

"In the morning he and I talked things over. We began to see how hard life was going to be for us. He'd never earned his living, and I'd never earned any money, or done any work of any kind. Even renting a very little house would cost us something. I remember thinking that I'd write to you and ask you if you could get Virginia to let us have that little old cottage her gardener used to live in."

"Of course you could have had it!" exclaimed Gloria warmly. "But hadn't the man any family, or anyone to help him?"

"His uncle had put him through school and was educating him in his profession, but it was a kind of work that wouldn't ever bring in much money. His uncle was very much interested in it, and didn't care whether he earned anything much or not. It wouldn't really matter, you see, unless he married, and his uncle didn't want him to marry."

"We talked a long time about it. I knew, of course, that I'd have to confess what I'd done to mother just as soon as she came home, and oh, how I hated the thought of doing that! I was all prepared for her to tell me that she never wanted to see me again. You see, she'd always expected me to marry well, and then support her. That was what I ought to have done, of course, after her goodness to me. But I loved this man so much—I didn't want to tell her about it."

"She came home that afternoon and I went straight to her room and told her what I'd done. I didn't dare even to wait till I'd planned out what I'd say—I just blurted it out. "She was simply furious. She didn't get hysterical, or rave; she was just icy cold, only her eyes blazed. "It must be annulled at once!" she said.

"I begged her not to do that, but just to let us go on in our own way. But she wouldn't hear to such a thing. She said she'd disown me if I didn't let her have it annulled. She said I'd break her heart if I didn't do that—she said lots of things. Finally she made me see that it wouldn't be fair to the man for me to be his wife; it would be too hard on him to make him support me. And I gave in—like a coward—believing her."

"The marriage was annulled at once, and through mother's lawyer it was done so quietly that it never got out—people never knew about it. A month later his uncle died, and he inherited a fortune."

"She paused for a moment, walked over to the dressing table and picked up a kodak picture of Guy Richards which lay there. For a long moment she stared at it intently, and Gloria watching her, was possessed by a conviction that swept over her in that instant. Guy was the man."

Her mind rushed back over the details, sorting them out, piecing them together. Guy had never had money of his own till after he finished school—some relative had educated him; Gloria had never known just who it was. Mimi openly devoted herself to Guy. Of course he was the man with whom she had eloped!

A feeling of desolation crept into Gloria's heart. She had liked Guy so much—he had made it so clear that he liked her. Thinking back to the night of the automobile accident, and to the next day, when she had stayed at the farm and had come back to it, it seemed to her that the happiness of that day was the result of being with him. She had always been fond of him, no wise began to think that that feeling had developed into more than mere fondness.

"Mother said she'd disown me if I didn't let her have it annulled."

But Mimi had first claim—she realized that clearly.

"When he inherited his money why didn't you and he get married over again?" Gloria asked. Mimi laid the picture down with a little sigh and went on with her dressing.

"Because he felt that I couldn't really have loved him or I wouldn't have let the marriage be annulled," she replied. "He said that I'd have stuck to him no matter how poor we'd be, and that if I didn't want him when he was poor, certainly he wasn't going to have me marry him because of his money. I have begged him to take me back—I've thrown my pride away and gone down on my knees to him, but he won't listen to me. He's perfectly nice and polite and all that, and people who see us together, of course, have no idea that there's ever been anything between us. But if he doesn't let me persuade him that I've always cared, I think I'll kill myself—I don't want to live without him. I'd do anything in the world to make him believe that I've always loved him—and if he doesn't free for me, he's not going to be free to care for anyone else, either!"

Gloria murmured sympathetically, and went out into the little balcony that opened from the room. Twilight still lingered over the mountain tops, but the valley dreamed in darkness. Stars were beginning to appear in the deep blue of the sky, and a slim new moon was low among them.

Was it always to be this way? she asked herself. Was she always to give her heart to a man who belonged to someone else? She did not believe that she really loved Guy as yet, but she felt that it would not be hard to care for him. He fitted into her life so perfectly, he knew her so well, appreciated her so much. She felt comfortable with him, happy. And now here stood Mimi between them.

Tomorrow—The Black Pearls.

TOMATO CONDIMENTS.

When tomatoes are cheapest—that is the time to make all sorts of tomato condiments. Ketchup and chili sauce and various sorts of red tomato pickles are delicious and they are not difficult to make. So get to work one of these warm days when you can buy tomatoes at a bargain and fill bottles and jars with various good-tasting tomato concoctions for next winter's use.

Here are recipes for some good ones:

Yellow Tomato Preserves.

Allow a pound of sugar to each pound of tomatoes and a half cup of water to each pound of fruit. Cover the tomatoes with boiling water, then skin. Make a syrup of the sugar, and when boiling skin and add the tomatoes. Have ready a sliced lemon that has been cooked in boiling water and a little sliced ginger. Add to the tomatoes. Cook until they are clear, remove, pack in jars, cook the syrup until thick, pour over and seal.

Eight quarts of tomatoes, three cups of peppers, two cups of onions, three cups of sugar, one cup of salt, one and a half quarts of vinegar, three teaspoons of cloves; same quantity of cinnamon, two teaspoons each of ginger and nutmeg; chop tomatoes, peppers and onions very fine; boil three hours; bottle up and seal.

Tomato Catsup.

Take one gallon of skinned tomatoes, four tablespoons of salt, four tablespoons of whole black pepper, half a spoon of allspice, eight pinks of red pepper and three spoons of mustard boil them together for one hour, then strain it through a sieve or coarse cloth, and when cold, bottle for use; have the best velvet curls.

Tomato Mustard.

Slice and boil for an hour, with six small red peppers, half bushel ripe tomatoes; strain through a colander and boil for an hour with two tablespoons of black pepper, two ounces of ginger, one ounce of allspice, half ounce of cloves, one-eighth ounce of mace, quarter ounce of salt. When cold, add two ounces of mustard, two ounces of curry powder and one pint of vinegar.

PYTHIANS HOSTS AT BURNS COTTAGE

Atlanta lodge, No. 20, K. of P., will entertain its membership and invited guests at an informal dinner at the Burns' cottage on Tuesday, July 31, at 6:30 o'clock. This will be in the nature of a Pythian rally, celebrating a successful term just ended under the administration of Norman T. Pool and laying of plans for continued success under newly installed Chancellor Commander Fred H. Goette.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE

Shingled Locks and Minute Hats Rule in Paris.

Hats are mere specks—is the impression of a young American in Paris.

The vizor is a mere shadow and the poke is no longer an honest-to-goodness poke at all. Crowns are very high, but they are small. Head dresses are out and earrings are gargantuan of precious stones. Mounting Antoine is the new hairdresser over whom France is wild. He is responsible for the absurd shingled coiffure those women who prefer not to have their hair shingled have it tucked under and plastered down with brilliantine while tortoise shell pins are used to hold the hair perfectly flat at the back.

As usual, we Americans are not treading very closely on the heels of French fashion. Perhaps this particular eccentricity will be one that will be skin deep entirely. We are wearing pokes with avidity, however, and find them as becoming as they are to the more delicately oiled French face. The poke must set close to the head in the back—and perhaps that fact has had something to do with the shingling of the hair. A poke that is large enough in the crown to accommodate a bun of hair does not fit with that close caress at the back of the head and over the ears that is one of the chief charms of the poke. The busy job that protrudes beneath the back of the poke is distinctly incongruous. It is like wearing tennis sneakers with a lace robe. If we follow the French lead in wearing hats of the vizor and poke shape, and then hats that are prodigiously small, it will be interesting to see how we shall solve the problem of arranging our hair.

This is a time where heavy hair certainly has no advantage, and where the girl who has retained the rather thin, soft, wavy hair of childhood has an advantage. This can be tucked beneath the narrow sides and wide front of a poke with perfect satisfaction. The quinton crust if it is coated first with the white of an egg.

A Cheap Brush.

Soak one of the wooden ment skewers that come in roasts in water before starting to scrub your wainscoting. It is invaluable when you come to the corners, as after digging it forms a stiff little brush, on the end of which fairly pries out the dirt. This same little brush is also handy when cleaning the obstinate corners of the roasting pan.

LILIAN

BY ARNOLD BENNETT

Next Week, "The Blood Ship."
By Norman Springer

On day, entering the large room after hours, Lillian saw Millicent typing on a machine not her own. As she passed she read the words: "My darling Gertrude; I simply can't tell you how glad I was to get your lovely letter."

And it flashed across her that Millicent would relate all the office doings to Gertrude, who would relate them to Miss Grig.

She had a sense of fear, divining that Millicent would misrepresent her in what phrases had Millicent told that Lillian had sat in Miss Grig's chair. Was it not strange that Gertrude had not written to her, Lillian, nor she even thought of writing to Gertrude? Too late now for her to write to Gertrude!

A few days later Mr. Grig said to Lillian in the small room:

"You're very crowded here, aren't you?"

Two new girls had been put into the small room, being of a superior sort and not fitted to join the rabble.

"Oh, no," said Lillian. "We're quite comfortable, thank you."

"You don't seem to be very comfortable. It occurs to me it would be better in every way if you brought your machine into my room."

An impulse, and an error of judgment, on Felix's part! But he was always capricious.

"I should prefer to stay where I am," Lillian answered, not smiling.

What a letter Millicent would have written in order to describe Lillian's promotion to the principal's room!

Often, having made a mistake, Felix would persist in it from obstinacy.

"Oh! As you like," he muttered huffily, instead of recognizing by his tone that Lillian was right.

But the next moment he repeated, very softly and kindly: "As you like! It's for you to decide."

He had not once shown the least appreciation of, or gratitude for, Lillian's zeal. On the contrary, he had been, in the main, querulous and censorious.

But she did not mind. She was richly regarded by a single being, left reflection of that stirring voice.

She seemed to have forgotten that she was born for pleasure, luxury, empire. Work fully satisfied her, but it was work for him. The mere suggestion that she should sit in his room filled her with a deep joy.

XI.
Lord Mackworth's Bill.

Miss Grig came back to the office on a Thursday, and somewhat mysteriously.

She shook hands with Lillian and Millicent. Millicent spoke first and was so effusive in the expression of her sympathy that Lillian, who nevertheless did not humiliate herself, could not possibly compete with him.

Miss Grig said that she was perfectly restored and let fall that Mr. Grig had gone away at her request for a short, much-needed holiday.

After a while a girl came to tell Millicent that Miss Grig wanted her.

Millicent was absent for forty minutes. When she returned, flushed but smiling, she informed Lillian that Miss Grig desired to see her.

"I notice there is an account here under the name of Lord Mackworth," Miss Grig began, having allowed Lillian to stand for a few seconds before looking up from the ledger.

"Yes, Miss Grig?"

"It hasn't been paid."

"Oh!" Lillian against an intense volition began to blush.

"Didn't you know?"

"I didn't," said Lillian.

"But you've been having something to do with the books during my absence."

"I did a little at first," Lillian admitted. "Then Mr. Grig saw to them."

Of course I expected the bill would be paid by this time.

"But you never raised?"

"No. It never occurred to me."

This statement was inaccurate. Lillian had often wondered whether Lord Mackworth had a bill, but, from some obscure cause of self-consciousness, she had not dared to make any inquiry. She felt herself to be somehow "mixed up" with Lord Mackworth, and had absurdly feared that if she mentioned the name there might appear on the face of the detestable Milly some sinister innuendo.

"If you know anything about Lord Mackworth, you must know that his debts are notorious," said Miss Grig.

"I believe he's one of the fastest young men in town, and it's more than possible that that account's a bad debt."

"But can't we send in the account again?" Lillian weakly suggested; she was overthrown by the charge of fast living against Lord Mackworth, yet she had always in her heart assumed that he was a fast liver.

"I've just telephoned to 66 St. James street, and I needn't say that Lord Mackworth is no longer there, and they don't know who he is."

Lillian lifted her head: "Well, Miss Grig, the bill isn't so very big, and if you'll please deduct it from my wages on Saturday, I hope that will be the end of that."

Miss Grig put her hand to the support of her forehead, and paused.

"I can't tolerate many things," she said, with a great benignity, "but not insolence."

"I didn't mean to be insolent."

"You did! And I think you had better accept a week's notice from Saturday. No. On second thought, I'll pay your wages up to Saturday week now, and you can go at once."

She smiled kindly. "That will give you time to turn round."

"Oh! Very well, if it's like that!"

Miss Grig shook hands with her and wished her well.

And she left. Except her clothes not a thing in the office belonged to her. She had no lien, no attachment. The departure was as simple and complete as leaving a tube train. No word! No good-bye! Merely a disappearance.

A plot! That was what it was! A plot against her, matured by Miss G. in a few minutes out of Milly's innuendoes written to Gertrude and spoken to Miss G. herself.

And the reason of the plot was Miss G.'s spinsterish, peevish fear of a friendship between Felix Grig and Lillian. The injustice of the world staggered her. She thought that something ought to be done about it!

After all that, she, Lillian, had done for the office to be turned off at a moment's notice, and without a "character"—for Miss G. would never give her a reference! Lillian would never ask for a reference! Never!

JUST NUTS

"THAT'S THE WAY I FEEL, BUT I LIVE HERE."

Nor would she nor could she approach Felix Grig; nor Gertrude, either. Perhaps Felix Grig might communicate with her. He certainly ought to do so! But then, he was very casual, forgetful and unconsciously cruel.

When she reached home she received a note from Mr. Pladda inviting her to the Hammersmith Palais de Danse for the following night. Mr. Pladda was the star lodger in the house—a man of forty-five, legally separated from his wife, but of impeccable respectability and decorum. His illusion was that he could dance rather well. Mr. Pladda was evidently coming on.

The next morning, which was very fine, Lillian spent in Hyde park, marshaling her resources. Beyond her trifling capital she had none.

Especially she had no real friends. She had unwisely cut loose from her parents' acquaintances, and she could not run after them now that she was in misfortune. Her former colleagues? Out of the question!

She went to two cinemas in the afternoon, and safe in the darkness of the second one, cried silently.

But with Mr. Pladda at the Palais de Danse at night she was admirably cheerful, and Mr. Pladda was exceedingly proud of his companion, who added refined manners to startling beauty. She delicately praised his dancing.

On Monday morning she visited the postoffice and filled up a withdrawal form for forty pounds. Good clothes—such as she could wear them—would help her to a desirable place. This notion, however, was in reality only a pretext for obtaining some good clothes. She felt desperate.

She was taking to clothes as some take to brandy.

One afternoon, returning home after a search for white elastic in Hammersmith, she saw Mr. Grig coming away from Lee lodging house. She flushed hotly, and desisted a benefit and just God reigning in heaven. She knew she was saved; and the revelation in her was nearly overwhelming. A miracle!

"I've just left a note for you," he said, affecting carelessness. "I brought it down myself because I couldn't remember whether your number was 55 or 65, and I had to inquire. Will you dine with me tonight at the Devonshire restaurant. It's 6 o'clock. I can't be able to dress, so you could wear a hat. Yes or no?"

He was gone again in a moment.

Lillian literally ran upstairs to her room in order to be alone with her ecstatic happiness. She hugged it, kissed it, smothered it; then reviewed all her new clothes.

Declaration.

It was the first high-class restaurant Lillian had ever seen, and despite some nervousness she felt that at home in it than anywhere before in all her existence.

Compare it to the Palais de Danse and Mr. Pladda. Ah! It was the genuine article at last!

The greatness, the enormity, of the occasion, frightened her. What were they doing there together? And what in the future would they do together? Was he really and seriously attracted by her? Was she in love with him? Or was it all a curious and dangerous deception?

They discussed her discharge.

"I'll tell you the whole business in a nutshell," said Grig. "My sister's a great woman. Only where I'm concerned she's always most monstrously unscrupulous. I'm her religion—always was, but more than ever since I bought that amusing business. She was jealous of you, and she's determined to clear you out."

"But why should she be jealous of me? I'm sure I've never..."

"Well, she's clever, Isabel is, and she's seen that I'm in love with you. Gone—far gone!"

The thud-thud of Lillian's heart as active process. He related the story of the middle-aged proprietor of one of the chief hotels who had married a young wife.

"He had broken up his family, and the family is the real unit of society—and there was no need for it! No need at all! But then you see he'd never had time in his existence to understand that a middle-aged man who has had experience of marriage and marries a girl young enough to be his daughter, is either a coward or a fool or without taste. He would only do it because he's made for her, and that's the very reason for not doing it! When romance comes in that way it lacks the sauce of secrecy and plotting—the double life and so on. The feeling of naughtiness—naughtiness is simply a marvelous feeling; perversity 'doing society in the eye.' It's a continual excitement. Of course it needs cleverness, on both sides. You haven't got to be clumsy over it. The woman runs risks, but nothing to the risks she'd run in marriage." He went on with no pause.

"You've not looked at me for hours! Look at me now, and tell me you're disgusted. Tell me you're frightened!"

She lifted her eyes and gazed at him for a few seconds, not smiling. Her skin tingled and crept. Then she sipped creme de menthe.

"A woman wants making. Only a man can make a woman. She has to be formed. She can't do it herself. A young man may be able to do it, but he's a fearful bungler, besides being cruel—unconsciously. Whereas an older man, a much older man—he knows! It's a unique chance for both of them. She has so much to give, and she has so much to learn. It's a fair bargain! And if you live to be as old as Napoleon de l'Enchant you'll never meet a more honest man than I am!"

Lillian felt intoxicated, but not with the Burgundy nor with the creme de menthe. Rather with sudden fear. She thought: "Be careful! Be careful! You aren't yourself. Something queer's come over you." She was not happy. She was alarmed! Once before she had been alarmed by herself, but this time she was really alarmed.

She saw clearly that a woman must be formed by a man, and she longed ardently to be formed. As she stood she was futile. She had the intelligence to realize how insipid she was. Ambition surged through her and with fresh power.

New York, July 24.—Bearish sentiment again predominated in the cotton market today and while occasional rallies occurred, one of them near the close, the market had very little substantial support, most of the buying represented covering of shorts. The final tone was firm with prices from 50 points lower to 5 points net higher. At one point, the market was sold as low as 23.80 or 70 points down from the previous close. New crop positions while not so weak as they were a few days ago, were still expected to show the strength of the absence of rain in Texas, and complaints that yesterday's precipitation had been limited to southern portions of the state where the crop is now being gathered. It was estimated that Wall Street alone covered over 50,000 bales of short cotton in the afternoon. A good deal of resistance was noted around 22.25 for October, which proved to be the low point of the day and in December at 22.05, also the lowest and this doubtless had a bearing on the rapidity of the late advance. The weakness in both grain and stocks and an absence of business in the cotton goods market encouraged bear operators during the session. Notwithstanding the less favorable news from Texas, wires from that state again reported the basis weak and the interior of the crop is now both for August and early fall shipment. Temperatures were high at many Texas points, but this seemed to be offset by generally fair weather from other sections of the belt. It was felt by many that the future will be more a question of demand than of supply the coming season in view of the reduced buying power of the western farmer. No notices were issued today but there have been some recent arrivals of cotton from the west which will be certificated and against which notices will be issued tomorrow, some estimating the total was high as 10-15 bales. With July contracts, 23.80 making 4,733,333 and this against 4,733,333, United States port stocks 232,291.

COTTON RECOVERS AFTER WEATHER DECLINES.
New Orleans, July 24.—After making fairly wide declines today the cotton market commenced to react on realizing by the short interest, and many buyers coming in on the basis of high temperatures in Texas and claims that lower prices were bringing in a spot demand, with a consequent tightening in the basis. Small net advances were established, but these were reduced somewhat on the close, which was 11 points down to 5 points up from the day before. The market closed at the bid price, 23.35, 21.40, and October at the range of 21.40 to 21.70.
In the early trading the market still felt the influence of the weather break in the western spot markets and July fell off to 23c, or 40 points under the close of yesterday. After that July turned almost inactive and appeared well liquidated, trading in that position ceased at noon tomorrow. On this first decline October fell off to 21.65 and the July contracts, 23.35, to 21.40 to 21.70. Covering by shorts stimulated enough demand to bring about a complete recovery, and finally net gains, October trading at 21.40, 21.35, 21.30, 21.25, 21.20, 21.15, 21.10, 21.05, 21.00, 20.95, 20.90, "Come Out of the Kitchen."
(At the Forsyth.)

Clara Joel as a blue-blooded Virginian, who masquerades as a cook in order to help restore the family fortunes, and John Little, as a rich northern, who is democratic enough to overlook a kitchen apron when he likes what is in it, supply much of the romantic thrill attendant upon the presentation of "Come Out of the Kitchen" at the Forsyth.

The play was first produced in New York by Henry Miller after it had been adapted to the stage by A. E. Thomas from Alice Duer Miller's delightful story of the same name. It was a big success in New York, and is finding enthusiastic welcome from Atlanta playgoers this week.

Johnny Elliott and Girls.

(At Loew's Grand.)

Johnny Elliott and Girls, the elaborate melody offering that has been delighting audiences at Loew's Grand theater since the first of the season, closes its Atlanta engagement with today and tonight performances. It is one of the classic acts in vaudeville, the music having been written by Al von Tilley. Four beautiful girls appear with the company, all of whom have been secured from leading New York productions and each specialize in some distinct form of the vaudeville art. The way they glide through intricate jazz steps makes them the real hit of the show.

Other good acts closing tonight are Hon. Dave Manley, The National Spokenman, Hart and Rubini in musical moments, Inez Marvin, Atlanta girl in songs and violin selections, and Les Perettes, dancing acrobats.

The feature of the screen program is Colleen Moore in "Broken Chains."

"A Gentleman of Leisure."

(At the Howard.)

Keeping up appearances, this theme of the modern matron's existence, is seen to excellent advantage in Jack Holt's Paramount picture, "A Gentleman of Leisure," now showing at the Howard theater. The picture is ably supported by Sigrid Holmgren, Casson Ferguson, Alec Francis, Adele Farrington and others.

It develops that Sir John and Lady Blount scheme to marry their nephew, Sir Spencer Deever, to Molly Creedon, a wealthy American girl. When Molly decides to return to New York, the Blounts accompany her. To obtain money for the passage, Sir John, unknown to his wife, pawns the Blount diamonds, which jewels are an important factor in the story.

"Penrod and Sam."

(At the Metropolitan.)

The boys, adventures and misadventures of a typical American boy constitute the plot of "Penrod and Sam," from the famous book by Booth Tarkington, which is now playing to large audiences at the Metropolitan theater.

Benny Alexander portrays the role of Penrod, and Sam is played by Johnny Elliott and Girls.
